BRITAIN PUSHING PLAN FOR ENDING KOREAN IMPASSE

Reported to Call for Both Sides to Invite Certain Neutrals, Including India, to Peace Talks.

U.N. DELEGATE FLIES TO LONDON

England 'Understands' U.S. Will Go Along but Officials in Washington Indicate Opposition to Proposal.

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Britain is reported to be pushing a plan aimed at breaking the Korean peace conference deadlock by letting both sides invite certain neutrals, including India, to join the deliberations.

Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd, who has been working with the United States and other United Nations members in an effort to get the Korean parley started by Oct. 28, was expected to arrive by plane today from New York to confer with Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Lloyd was slummoned yesterday after diplomatic informants said the Churchill Cabinet had worked out the new Korean strategy.

Basis of New Plan.

Although no official details were available on the plan, the informants said it was based on the assumption that the proposed Korean peace parley will have to be broadened.

It proposes, they said, that the peace conference as a whole—the Communist side as well as the U.N. side—now agree to invite neutrals to join in the talks. The United States has agreed the conference itself could invite outsiders—but only after it begins its deliberations.

The Russians have warned the conference may never take place unless the U.N. adopts their proposal that certain Asian nations—such as India, Burma and Pakistan—sit in.

The U.N. majority voted against this proposal, supporting the United States' contention that the armistice terms confined the conference at the start to those countries which fought in Korea.

The diplomatic informants said the British "understand" the United States is prepared to go along with the new idea, although no formal agreement has been reached.

U. S. Indicates Opposition.

In Washington, however, United States officials said they had not received any British compromise proposal and strongly indicated that the one reported in the works would not be acceptable.

In addition to the Korean plan the British cabinet also reportedly discussed other international questions, including prospects for a top-level conference with Russia to ease world tension and the position of Red China.

Australian Foreign Minister Richard G. Casey arrived by plane from New York yesterday for consultations. Casey has arranged to meet Churchill Tuesday.

One sure subject of discussion is the Australian stand against the admission of "neutral" na-

COLLEGE IN NEW YORK TO NAME SCHOOL OF BUSINESS FOR BARUCH

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (UP)

CITY COLLEGE announced today that it formally would rename its school of business next week to honor a distinguished graduate, Bernard M. Baruch.

A bronze plaque bearing the name "The Bernard M. Baruch School of Business and Public Administration" will be unveiled at a special convocation in the school auditorium next Thursday.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the board of General Motors, will make the major address. Baruch, financier and adviser to Presidents, also will speak.

Baruch was graduated from City College with the class of 1889 and was one of the early sponsors of the business school which opened in 1919.

GRANDMA'S $5300 BLOWN BY YOUTH IN WEEK'S SPREE

MIAMI BEACH, Oct. 3 (UP)—A 14-year-old boy today awaited return to New Jersey on charges that his week's spree wiped out $5300 life savings he had taken from his grandmother's cash box.

The boy, found with only $11 and some odd change when arrested at a small hotel yesterday, was held by juvenile authorities for Paterson (N.J.) police.

"He must have spent money like a sailor on a three-day pass," Sgt. R. B. Loveland, police juvenile officer said.

Suspicion was aroused, police said, when the boy handed a cab driver a $50 bill for a 50-cent ride and told him to keep the change. New Jersey police meantime got wind of a telegram to a friend in Paterson, asking that $1000 be sent to his hotel.

When police arrived at the hotel the boy seemed surprised that he had been found. Authorities said he flew to Miami Beach after spending a week in New York.

14-YEAR STRIKE TO END WITH SALE OF PUB IN IRELAND

DUN LAOGHAIRE, Ireland, Oct. 3 (UP)—A 14-year-old strike is about to end.

The strike at Downey's public house (bar) started in 1939 when owner Pat Downey fired a bartender. When Downey refused to rehire him, pickets began their marathon march.

Downey died last May, and picket Val Murphy put aside his sandwich-board and walked into the pub to offer his sympathy to the widow, who became the new proprietor. As soon as Downey was buried, the strikers took up their march again.

The bar will be sold at auction next Friday.

"If the premises change hands the strike will end," a union spokesman said. "We will have no dispute with the new owner."

Paddy Young, the dismissed bartender is now serving up drinks in a Dublin pub.

RUSSIAN JOURNAL SPEAKS OF BERIA'S 'LIQUIDATION'

MOSCOW, Oct. 3 (AP)—The magazine Soviet State and Law yesterday made the first mention of the case of Lavrenty P. Beria that has been noted in the Soviet press in recent weeks.

The organ of the Academy of Sciences' Institute of Law devoted a large section of its leading article to calling on party political workers to strengthen vigilance against bourgeois nationalism and cosmopolitanism to make sure that such enemies of the state as Beria do not make headway.

The magazine said the "liquidation of the criminal adventurer, Beria," denoted a defeat of the imperialists and showed that any anti-Soviet schemes by foreign imperialists would be smashed.

U.N. WON'T AGREE TO EXTEND TIME FOR 'EXPLAINING' TO BALKY P.O.W.S

Can't Break Faith With Anti-Reds, Says Clark of Neutral Commission's Request for Extension.

PANMUNJOM, Oct. 3 (AP)—The United Nations Command today refused to extend beyond the official Dec. 24 deadline the period in which the Allies and Communists may try to change the minds of war prisoners who have refused to go home.

Gen. Mark W. Clark, retiring U.N. commander, reaffirmed Allied opposition to extension of the "explanation" period shortly before he took off for Tokyo after a last inspection tour in Korea.

"We cannot be a party to breaking faith with the anti-Communist prisoners of war," he said.

The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission had asked for a deadline extension because of delays in getting the explanations program underway. Neither the Allies nor Communists would accept compounds constructed for the purpose. The 90-day period for explanations started Sept. 26, but the interviews have not begun.

Nine Anti-Reds Missing.

Clark's refusal was sent to the Repatriation Commission—of which India is chairman—following two days of rioting by anti-Communist prisoners. Three P.O.W.s were killed and 10 wounded by Indian guards.

The Indian command said today nine anti-Communist Koreans are missing and presumably escaped. Some are believed to have fled Thursday night. Others may have bolted during the rioting.

An Indian spokesman said three anti-Red prisoners have died of disease since the Indians took custody of the POWs.

In Seoul, South Korea's President Syngman Rhee said he was shocked at the bloodshed in prisoner compounds guarded by the Indians.

Acting Foreign Minister Cho Chung Whan called the deaths of anti-Communist prisoners "criminal acts of murder."

"We wish to solemnly warn them (the Indians) that if they do not rectify immediately the evil acts being committed we shall be forced to take up arms against them," Cho declared.

He charged that "the Indians profess to be neutral but are acting really as Communists."

"We demand that they frankly side with the North Koreans and Chinese Communists by sending their armed forces and fight against us," he declared.

Reds List 308 Former Captives.

(Meanwhile, the Communists turned over a list of 308 prisoners they said escaped, died or were released at the front, the United Press reported. The move one again dashed U.N. hopes of getting back more Allied war prisoners. The U.N. claims the Reds failed to return or account for about 3000 Allied prisoners, including 944 Americans.

(The Communist roster, handed to U.N. officers at a meeting of the Military Armistice Commission in Panmunjom, was not made public.)

Clark's refusal to extend the explanations period was sent to the Repatriation Commission after the U.N. commander had conferred with Gen. John E. Hull, his successor, and other high ranking officers.

As Clark and Hull wound up a brief tour of Korea, both advised fighting men on the front not to trust the Communists and to be ready for anything.

Brig. Gen. A. L. Hamblen, who handles prisoner matters for the U.N. Command, relayed the Allied refusal to extend the persuasion period in a letter to Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the five-nation Repatriation Commission.

Hamblen said the Korean armistice specifically fixes periods for each phase of the prisoner exchange.

"This provision (the Dec. 24 deadline) is explicit and is not open to interpretation," Hamblen said. "The prisoners are aware that Dec. 24 marks the end of the explanation period."

Hamblen also pointedly told the Repatriation Commission this provision of the armistice "can be changed only by mutual con-

'BREAK' EXPECTED IN KIDNAPING OF KANSAS CITY BOY

Anxiety About Bobby Greenlease Is Rising on Fifth Day Since Abduction.

By CARL R. BALDWIN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 3—A "break" of some kind in the Greenlease kidnaping case was expected momentarily today, in a tense atmosphere of rising anxiety.

What the break might be, super-cautious officials would not say, but it was generally believed that some positive development would come to light on this, the fifth day since a strange woman took 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease from his school and disappeared with him.

The boy's life was the first consideration of all concerned. His wealthy father, Robert C. Greenlease, a major distributor of automobiles, said at the outset of the case that arrangements were in order for payment of ransom, but there has been no report of word from the kidnaper.

Several False Calls.

A spokesman for family, Robert Ledterman of Tulsa, Okla., a business associate of Greenlease, said last Tuesday, the day after the kidnaping, that there had been a number of telephone calls from persons pretending to be the kidnapers. He said none of them, however, proved to have any substance.

On the subject of contact with the kidnaper, reporters heard their first word from a member of the family—and so far their last—on Tuesday morning. Then it was that Greenlease walked out of his Mission Hills home and said, in tears and possibly without intention, "They're trying to make a contact." Since then, secrecy has prevailed.

Onlookers have been staying back about a block from the home, but even if they were closer they could tell little if anything about the identity of persons coming and going. Callers have stopped using the front entrance and changed to a side door where they are shielded by a brick wall.

Sympathy Messages.

The plight of the parents has brought expressions of sympathy from many persons over the country, in numerous letters and telegrams and telephone calls, many of them offering prayers for the boy's safe return.

Kansas City police have stood back from the case to give maximum clearance for safe return of the child, carefully avoiding any action that might add to desperation on the part of the person or persons holding him.

With fingers crossed, officials could not help recalling the tragic and still unsolved kidnaping of 10-year-old Charles Mattson at Tacoma, Wash, in December 1936. The boy was found dead two weeks after he was kidnaped. His father said he believed he was killed because Acting Lt. Gov. Wicks of New York on List of Those Seeing Fay in Prison.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—Political and labor circles in New York and New Jersey reverberated today to echoes of an official disclosure that government officials and union leaders visited labor racketeer Joseph S. (Joey) Fay in Sing Sing prison.

A list of Fay's visitors at prison was released yesterday by the New York State Department of Correction. Among the 88 names was that of Arthur H. Wicks, acting lieutenant governor of New York.

The disclosure prompted a demand from Republican Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for a "complete and satisfactory explanation."

Wicks Replies.

Wicks countered with a statement that his calls on Fay in Sing Sing prison were "a public service . . . to avoid labor troubles" in his state senatorial district. He said "I personally resent any implication of wrongdoing on my part."

Wicks said he believed Fay had enough power to exert influence from behind prison walls on the settlement of inter-union disputes. Wicks said he did not know whether Fay actually had intervened in any threatened labor disturbances.

Fay, former vice president of the AFL International Operating Engineers Union, was convicted in 1945 of extortion and attempting to extort $368,000 from the Delaware Aqueduct project. The aqueduct is part of the New York City water system. He entered Sing Sing Feb. 29, 1948, for seven and one-half to 15 years, after having served one year in a New York City jail.

Letter of Intercession.

Meanwhile, Paul L. Troast, Republican candidate for governor of New Jersey, conceded he wrote a letter in 1951 to Dewey asking for executive clemency for Fay. But Troast told reporters he knew the one-time construction labor boss only as a "business connection and never socially." Troast said he saw "nothing improper" in the letter.

Troast, chairman of the New Jersey Turnpike Authority, said he had not seen Fay since he entered prison. His name was not on the list of visitors.

Troast's Democratic opponent, Robert B. Meyner, said in a statement: "It is shocking to learn that the man who seeks the highest position of trust in New Jersey . . . should try to use his influence with the Republican Governor of another state to free a racketeer."

(The power Fay wielded from his prison cell, the New York Herald Tribune said, was also emphasized with the disclosure that an organized letter-writing campaign asking Gov. Dewey to commute Fay's prison sentence took place in one month in 1951. Ninety-eight persons wrote to the Governor on Fay's behalf.)

The list of Fay's visitors was dotted with names of persons prominent in political and labor circles in New York and New Jersey. The list was an outgrowth of the investigation of Yonkers Raceway following the

DOCK STRIKERS OUSTED BY AFL SAY LEWIS HAS GIVEN THEM BID

ILA Asserts It Is Studying Invitation to Join UMW — Encouraged by Support From CIO Group.

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—A top officer of the AFL-ousted International Longshoremen's Association said yesterday that John L. Lewis's United Mine Workers of America has been urging the ILA to come into its fold.

The ILA said the invitation is being considered by its strategy committee, set up to fight attempts by the newly-chartered AFL longshoremen's union to invade its membership.

The overtures by Lewis's union were confirmed last night by Patrick J. (Packy) Connolly, ILA executive vice president and leader of the union's strike that halted shipping in 12 Atlantic coast ports. Today is the third day of the strike.

Lewis Not in Capital.

John Owens, secretary-treasurer of the UMW, would not deny or confirm the report in his offices in Washington. Lewis was said to be out of the capital.

The offer of support by the vast resources of Lewis's union was the leading development of the strike by 60,000 longshoremen.

The crime-ridden ILA had further encouragement yesterday from the CIO National Maritime Union. John Hunt, the NMU port agent, sent word to the ILA wage scale committee meeting in New York that his union would respect longshoremen's picket lines.

The NMU offered also to refuse to sail vessels if the longshoremen desired such action.

Departure Put Off.

Although Connolly's strike committee said this would be unnecessary, American Export Lines postponed "indefinitely" the departure of their liner Constitution which was scheduled for today.

In the next step to get the longshoremen back to work early next week through a Taft-Hartley law injunction, David L. Cole, chairman of a fact-finding committee appointed Thursday by President Eisenhower, opened hearings in New York today.

Other members of Cole's board are Dr. Harry J. Carman, dean emeritus of Columbia college and a member of the New York state mediation board, and the Rev. Dennis J. Comey, S.F., founder and director of the school of industrial relations in St. Joseph's College, Philadelphia. Father Comey also has acted as arbitrator of Philadelphia's waterfront disputes.

Report by Monday Night.

The board is scheduled to report its findings to the President by Monday night. Then he can seek an anti-strike injunction. The strikers have agreed to obey such an order.

The board went into a closed session to determine procedure and a tentative schedule for hearings.

Although no violence was reported along New York's sprawling waterfront yesterday, police guards were set up at the bedside of Joesph P. Ryan, ILA president, who has been ill at French hospital since Monday.

Two detectives also guarded John Dwyer, New York organizer of the new longshoremen's union, as he toured the Greenwich Village piers.

The entrance of Lewis into the interunion fight for control of pier labor would make the task of the new longshoremen's union chartered by the AFL more difficult.

Effectiveness of Strike.

ILA officials noted that the effectiveness of their strike has demonstrated the solidarity of ILA membership in the face of criticism from George Meany, AFL president; Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, who said that stevedore employers should not sign up with the racketeer-controlled ILA, and other public officials.

Labor officials said they wouldn't put it past Lewis to attempt to move into the ILA-AFL battle with his own program for cleaning up the longshoremen's union. Labor leaders generally respect Lewis's ability but dislike him because of his lone-wolf methods and his insistence on domination.

STEAMFITTERS' EX-OFFICER SHOT, KILLED IN GARAGE

Shot to Death

HARRY G. HALE

Murderer of Harry G. Hale Flees in Auto — Link to Bombings of Union Office, Callanan Home Sought.

VICTIM ONCE HEAD OF WELFARE FUND

He Was Reported Ousted in Dispute With AFL Boss — Wife Tells of Shooting at Home.

Harry G. Hale, former director of the Pipefitters' Welfare Educational fund and a former business agent of AFL Steamfitters' Local 562, was shot and killed last night at his home, 2910 Barrett street.

The killer, who shot Hale down with a 12-gauge shotgun in the open doorway of his garage, fled in an automobile. A neighbor furnished police with several combinations of a license number, which are being checked.

Authorities are seeking to determine if the murder of Hale, a three-time former convict whose name originally was Harry Hufendick, is connected with the bombings last February of the Steamfitters' offices, 1558 South Vandeventer avenue, and of the home of former Sheriff Thomas F. Callanan, present director of the union's welfare fund.

The inquiry also is concerned with the placing of a homemade bomb outside the Steamfitters' quarters a week ago. The fuse of the bomb had not been lighted. Nearby was a note addressed to Lawrence Callanan, boss of the Steamfitters, advising Callanan to leave town.

Wife Tells of Shooting.

Hale's wife, Alpha, told police she was sleeping on the rear porch and awakened at 12:35 a.m. when her husband opened the garage door and turned on a light preparatory to putting his machine away. There was a loud report and several minutes later she heard a machine being driven rapidly away in nearby Glasgow avenue.

Mrs. Hale went to the garage and saw her husband lying in the open doorway leading to the alley. She called neighbors, who summoned police.

The killer apparently stood in the yard across the alley, at 2907 Harper street. A discharged shotgun shell was found in the yard and wadding from the shell was strewn in the alley.

Hale was still breathing when police reached the scene, but was unconscious and died on the way to City Hospital. He was shot with large pellets, double O shot, two of which were found in the garage. A charge of about six pellets struck him in the face above the jaw line, penetrating the brain.

Hale Went Out to Buy Hat.

Mrs. Hale said her husband went out last night for the first time in about two weeks. He suffered from a serious stomach ailment and spent most of his time at home. He said he was going to buy a new fall hat. The hat, purchased at the Kingdel Toggery Shop, 4957 Delmar boulevard, was found in his automobile, parked in the alley.

Hale was a business agent of Local 562 before his appointment as the original director of the union welfare fund. He reportedly was ousted several years ago following a disagreement with Lawrence Callanan and was not reappointed to his former business agent's job. Because of failing health he had not been able to work as a steamfitter, and his wife had obtained a job in a manufacturing plant.

Following the death of Hale's successor as director of the welfare fund the job was given to Thomas F. Callanan, a non-steamfitter and brother of Lawrence Callanan, who was defeated last year for re-election as Sheriff. Ill-feeling between Hale and the Callanans was increased when Mrs. Hale took an active part in the political campaign against the Callanan faction last year, it was reported.

Mrs. Hale recalled that on the day after the general election last year her husband received a telephone call from a man, who told her he had "something important" to talk to her husband about. Her husband told her later that the caller had threatened to "get me." He apparently was unconcerned by the threat, she added.

Hale appeared twice before the circuit court grand jury which investigated the February bombings directed against the Callanans. He denied knowledge of the bombings and threw little light on the ill-feeling between him and Lawrence Callanan, who

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP) Aviation authorities here say the United States probably will learn little new from the MIG-15 jet plane delivered by a North Korean, but that it is being put through its paces for a thorough test.

Meanwhile, plans are going ahead to pay the North Korean flyer the promised $100,000 reward for the Russian-made craft. The United States has offered to return it to its "rightful owners," saying that the delivery, after the cease-fire in Korea, was "not in the spirit of the armistice."

The plane is an earlier model than the one landed in Denmark several months ago by a defecting Polish flier.

Nevertheless, American airmen were reported giving the Korean MIG a thorough going over, including flying tests, on Okinawa.

PRESIDENT HAPPY OVER BROOKLYN'S FIRST VICTORY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (UP)—President Eisenhower expressed pleasure over Brooklyn's first victory in the World Series yesterday.

Eisenhower had said Thursday when the Yankees were winning that it's time for a change.

Reporters asked Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, after yesterday's game, if the President was pleased.

"He was; I wasn't," Hagerty said.

Eisenhower had hoped to attend yesterday's game but other engagements forced him to abandon the idea. He watches the games on television whenever he gets a chance.

BOY, 10, SAVES UP FOR PONY AND THEN LOSES IT IN FIRE

NORFOLK, Va., Oct. 3 (AP)—Jimmy Howell, 10 years old, had wanted a pony since he was just a little boy.

He saved his money. His parents helped by opening a savings account for him. Last Christmas, Jimmy bought a pony. Then the family moved from the city to the country so that Jimmy could have a place for the pony.

Thursday night, fire broke out in the pony's stall. The parents were away, but Jimmy and his older sister, aided by neighbors, sought to rescue the animal. Bystanders had to restrain Jimmy from entering the burning building. The pony died in the flames.

U.S. Regulations Tip Off Press On McCarthy Honeymoon Flight

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 3 (AP)—Senator Joseph R. McCarthy and his bride are honeymooning in Nassau.

The Republican Senator from Wisconsin had said most of his honeymoon with the former Jean Kerr would be spent in his home state, but rumors at their wedding reception in Washington said they would head for Arizona.

The Miami Herald said today the couple came to Miami and boarded a plane for Nassau. McCarthy left instructions with the flying service that the information was not to be given out.

He overlooked one important detail. Passenger lists of planes going to foreign countries must be filed with the Government. A reporter saw McCarthy's name on the list.

Spends $100 to Beat $5 Fine, Driver Preserves Spotless Record

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 3 (UP)—James E. Collingwood estimated today he had spent about $100 in money and time to beat a $5 traffic fine. In doing so he kept spotless a 27-year driving record.

Collingwood won acquittal yesterday from court of Topeka on a charge that he ran a stop sign.

A farmer with a law degree, Collingwood produced in court a chart two feet by three, six large photographs of the intersection and two witnesses. He argued his case for more than two hours. Finally Judge Roy Bulkley held that Collingwood had raised sufficient doubt that an offense had been committed.

INDIA IS QUIETLY SEEKING BACKING IN U.N. FOR BIG 3 TALK WITH SOVIET Much Ground for Menon to Cover Before Offering Conference Proposal for Discussion as Agenda Item.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—India was making definite behind-the-scenes moves today in an attempt to get the United Nations General Assembly on record favoring a top-level Western Big Three meeting with Russia soon on world problems.

V. K. Krishna Menon, acting head of the Indian delegation, has carried preliminary soundings on the move to delegations outside the Asian-Arab group. However, he declined to go further in comment for publication than his policy speech to the Assembly last Monday.

He told the delegates then that if the idea of a meeting of big power leaders was acceptable—numerous countries which spoke before him called for the same thing—he would offer a resolution to the Assembly calling for a big power meeting.

Menon then went to a session of the Arab-Asian group and asked its support. A member of the group said Menon was advised to put his proposed resolution on paper before the bloc would indicate support for any specific plan.

This source said that Menon had began to approach the members of the 15-nation Assembly Steering Committee to determine whether they would agree to the question going on the full Assembly agenda as a special item.

There are three ifs in Menon's moves from now on: If he can get favorable reaction from a majority of the Steering Committee to put the item on the agenda, if it appears he has a wide degree of support in the Assembly itself, and if any of the Big Four show no decided opposition—then Menon's move might come toward the end of the month.

In a debate before Political Committee No. 2, Russia campaigned for its thrice-rejected package deal to admit 14 countries to U.N. membership including five Soviet satellites.

Russia's Jacob Malik blasted the Western powers for consistently opposing admission of Russia's entries—Albania, Outer Mongolia, Bulgaria, Romania and Hungary.

The United States and Britain are expected to take part in the membership debate next Monday.

tions to the Korean peace conference. In this, Casey has strongly backed the United States position.

ALLIES' TENSIONS CAUSING CONCERN

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—Growing differences between the United States and its allies in Korea today threatened their united front on major questions in the United Nations Assembly. Some delegates said the issues must be ironed out before further U.N. consideration of world problems.

Some of the Allies wish the United States would not be so stiff and unyielding on all issues. Others are interested in the recurring demands for a personal meeting of the chiefs of state of the big powers.

The consensus is that the opening round of debate in the Assembly showed weaknesses and divisions on the Western side and that unusual efforts must be undertaken to repair these breaks.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief United States delegate, went to Washington at the end of the week for his first meeting with President Eisenhower's cabinet since the Assembly convened Sept. 15.

His opposite number on the British delegation, Minister of State Selwyn Lloyd, flew to London.

Lloyd's sudden departure created considerable stir at the Assembly. Some diplomats pointed out it was unusual for the top British delegate to return home at such a stage in the discussions. They expressed the belief that Lloyd might have wished to explain to British Government leaders personally the situation as it has developed to date.

Lodge took a string of victories to Washington but he left grumbles of discontent among some of the chief American allies.

He prevented the reopening of the debate on the Korean peace conference which India and Russia demanded. He also held the Allied lines firm against attempts of the Soviet bloc to unseat Nationalist China and give China's place here to Peiping.

Japan Wants to Take Part in Peace Parley.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (UP)—Hayato Ikeda, special representative of Premier Shigeru Yoshida, said last night that Japan wants to take part in the Korean peace conference.

He told newsmen his government has never formally requested representation but that United States officials were well aware of its position. "We know that the South Korean government may have something to say about our desire," he added.

Pope Urges Strict World-Wide Law on International Crimes

Chief Among Proposals Would Be Bar on 'the Criminal of Modern War . . . That Provokes Ruin, Suffering, Horror.'

ROME, Oct. 3 (AP)—Pope Pius XII urged the nations of the world today to adopt a code of international law that would punish crimes having international consequences. Chief among these, he said, would be an unjust war.

The Pope spoke to delegates from more than a score of countries, gathered in Rome for the sixth International Congress of Criminal Law. He received them in special audience at his Castel Grandolfo summer residence.

The Pontiff placed at the top crimes with international consequences which he said should come under international law "the criminal of a modern war . . . that provokes ruin, suffering and unimaginable horror." He said no person should be able to bring this about with impunity.

"Such perils," he added, "compel all people to hold themselves ready for defense.

"But that absolutely does not alter the fact that unjust war must be put in the first place among the gravest crimes that international law should punish with the heaviest penalty."

The Pope said "even in just war—that is, in a war of defense—not all means (of war) are acceptable."

He then listed as inacceptable mass executions of innocent persons for reprisal, the execution of hostages, massacres for reasons of hate or race, mass deportations, violence against women and children, and roundups of men for forced labor.

These, he said, indicate what crimes should be dealt with under international law. He did not indicate punishments that should be meted out to international criminals.

He said international law accords should be so co-ordinated between countries that crimes cited could not be committed profitably in any country and punishment for them could not be less feared in one country than in another.

Passing on to aspects of police and trial procedure, considered by the delegates in their congress, the Pope also spoke sharply against third - degree methods. Questioning of prisoners, he said, should be done without physical or psychic torture, even if the arrested person is really guilty.

OFFICIALS' VISITS TO RACKETEER IN PRISON CAUSE STIR

fatal shooting of Thomas F. Lewis, Bronx union officer on Aug. 28.

Some of the visitors are connected with Yonkers and Roosevelt Raceways, harness tracks near New York City now the focus of a state investigation.

The Dewey-Wicks cross-fire stirred queries as to whether the governor would call for the resignation of his second-in-command.

No More Comment.

Harry O'Donnell, the Governor's press secretary, said late yesterday the Governor would have no further comment at this time.

The 65-year-old Wicks, leader of the Republican majority in the state senate, has been in poor health recently. He assumed the duties of lieutenant governor Thursday when Frank C. Moore resigned to head a private research foundation.

Other New York political figures listed among Fay's visitors included William F. Bleakley, former State Supreme Court justice, and William F. Condon, Republican state senator from Westchester county. Both live in Yonkers. Also listed was George Morton Levy, who operates Roosevelt Raceway.

Prominent New Jersey personages listed included William Egan of Newark, chairman of the Essex County Democratic Committee and Fay's lawyer, Democratic Mayor John V. Kenny of Jersey City, John Milton of Jersey City, a former United States senator and former mayor Meyer Ellenstein of Newark.

Labor Leaders Mentioned.

Among the labor leaders appearing on the list were William de Koning Sr. of Hempstead, chief of an AFL union local at Roosevelt Raceway; Louis Marciante, president of the New Jersey Federation of Labor; Sal Maso, head of the AFL building trades unions in New Jersey, and Thomas A. Murray, president of the New York state AFL.

Many of those listed were not available for comment.

Bleakley, the unsuccessful Republican candidate for Governor in 1936, headed the state delegation to the G.O.P. national convention at Philadelphia in 1948, when Dewey received the presidential nomination a second time. He is general counsel for the Yonkers Trotting Association, Inc.

Names Meany.

The New York Times said it reached Condon by telephone at the Thousand Island Club, near Alexandria Bay. He told the newspaper he never visited Fay personally or on business but accompanied George Meany, now president of the AFL, on a visit a year or so ago. Condon said he was present while Meany spoke to Fay but does not know what they talked about. Condon was then chairman of the State Senate Labor Committee.

Meany was not available for comment. His name was not on the Fay visiting list.

Levy said he visited Fay "a couple of times a couple of years ago" at the request of Thomas R. Fay, the prisoner's brother. Levy said both he and Thomas were attorneys and "lifetime friends" and that Thomas had asked him to go to Sing Sing to talk with Joseph about technicalities in the case.

Kenny has said he visited Fay in Sing Sing but did not go there for that purpose. Kenny said he went with a friend who suggested the visit.

Repeats Testimony.

Kenny today repeated what he told the New Jersey law enforcement last January. He said he had visited the prison with a friend of Fay's and was asked if he would like to say hello to Fay.

"I said, sure," Kenny said. "I would do that for anyone. I was introduced to Fay and it was the first time I met him."

Ellenstein, who still is a Newark city commissioner, told the Senate crime investigating committee in 1951 that he had visited Fay at Sing Sing.

He said he had known Fay for about 40 years and called him a man "who helped a lot of unfortunate people." Ellenstein added that the visit was arranged by Egan as one of Fay's attorneys. Ellenstein, who also is a dentist, said he had treated Fay, his wife and daughter in that capacity.

Marciante was reported out of town, but Maso said he had known Fay 20 or 25 years. "My visits to him were strictly friendly. You know how it is when something like that happens to a friend. Everybody wants to go up to see him. I thought I'd cheer him up," he said. Maso said he, too, had written Dewey when Fay's parole came up.

Regarding the list released by his department, Correction Commissioner Edward J. Donovan said visitors to Sing Sing were not asked to give the purpose of their visits. No record was kept of their interviews with inmates. The list covered all Fay's visitors since he was admitted.

MRS. MARY NORTON RESIGNS FROM DEMOCRAT COMMITTEE

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Oct. 3 (AP)—Mrs. Mary T. Norton, former Congresswoman from New Jersey, said last night she had resigned as a member of the Democratic National Committee.

Mrs. Norton was the chairman of the House Labor Committee from 1937 to 1947. She resigned from Congress in 1950 because of poor health. It was under her guidance that the committee gained House passage of the 1937 Fair Labor Standards Act, known as the Wage and Hours Bill. She represented the Thirteenth District of New Jersey from 1924 until her retirement. She was the first woman Democrat in Congress.

Mrs. Norton said she was leaving the National Committee for reasons of age. "When a woman gets to be 78 years old, she has reached a time when she should retire," she said.

currence of the (U.N. Command and the Communist) commanders concerned, through the Military Armistice Commission."

Communist correspondent Wilfred Burchett, who sometimes is an unofficial spokesman for the Red command, said Friday the Communists "certainly expect an extension. . . ." He indicated the Reds will fight for the extension in the Military Armistice Commission.

Peiping radio charged Saturday that the rioting among anti-Communist Korean prisoners was "provoked by secret agents of the American side."

Gen. Thirmayya charged that the violence was touched off by "well organized groups" among the anti-Red P.O.W.s. Thimayya issued a statement lambasting the Allies, but he did not accuse them of organizing the groups.

The U.N. Command said today that since the Korean armistice was signed the Communists have not officially reported moving a single item of "combat material" into or out of North Korea.

Maj. Gen. Blackshear M. Bryan, senior U.N. member of the Armistice Commission, made the statement after a two-hour meeting with the Communists.

Bryan and his Communist counterpart, Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho, discussed a request from the neutral nations inspection teams for reports of combat material and personnel.

FAIRCHILD GETS KAISER'S FLYING BOXCAR CONTRACT

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Oct. 3 (UP)—The Fairchild Aircraft Co. has been awarded a new Air Force contract to build 88 C-119 "flying boxcars."

The new contract follows the Air Force action in canceling a contract for the giant transport planes with the Kaiser Motor Co., at Willow Run, Mich. The Kaiser contract for about $200,000,000 was canceled after sharp criticism in Congress.

EXHIBIT AT U.N. OF MOVIE REFUTING GERM-WAR CHARGE

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., United States delegate, yesterday invited United Nations correspondents to the first public showing next Tuesday of a sound film which he said showed the repudiation by American airmen of so-called "confessions" that they engaged in bacteriological warfare.

The United States delegation declined to discuss the film further at this time. The reputed confessions were cited by Communist delegates in debates in the U.N. earlier this year on charges that the Americans were using germ warfare in North Korea and China. The United States denied the charges and demanded an impartial investigation. The Assembly agreed with this demand but the Communists have refused to accept such investigation.

Seven in Plane Crash 37 Days Ago Found in Wilderness of Quebec

BAGOTVILLE, Que., Oct. 3 (AP)—Four men who set out on foot for civilization after being marooned 37 days in the Quebec wilderness north of here were spotted today by a Canadian Air Force search plane. The amphibious plane landed within a mile of where the men were seen.

Three others who stayed behind with their downed plane on isolated Lake Emmanuel, 288 miles due north of here, were flown out by amphibious plane.

The search by Canadian and United States Air Force planes started yesterday when a Canadian bomber, making one final check over the central Quebec wilds, sighted the small disabled ship.

The seven men—five Canadians, a German and a Dutchman—last were seen when they left the Fenimore Iron Co.'s property in the desolate Ungava bay area of northern Quebec Aug. 25 for a 320-mile return trip southward to Roberval on Lake St. John.

The four men decided to set out through the uncharted forest only a few hours before their plane was sighted. They were found not far from the starting point.

The discovery of their downed plane came on the second day of a final desperate search over the Quebec wilderness. Twenty-six R.C.A.F. and private planes had covered about 200,000 square miles in previous hunts. Twice the R.C.A.F. had given up the quest as hopeless only to be called back when weak radio signals were received from the area where the plane might have gone down.

There was no indication how the men had managed to survive so long in the already freezing wilderness. At least three of them, however, were said to be "experienced woodsmen" and airways officials said the plane carried enough food for the men for several weeks.

(The United Press said the three sighted near the downed plane had stayed by the lake in a roughly-built shack.)

U.S. MINE CHIEF BACKED BY LEWIS CONTINUES IN JOB

Forbes to Retire in Two Years — UMW Boss Blasted Man Picked by Eisenhower.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—John J. Forbes has been designated to continue as director of the Bureau of Mines—with the blessing of John L. Lewis.

Lewis, head of the independent United Mine Workers, blasted the nomination last spring of Tom Lyon of Salt Lake City for the post. A row over Senate confirmation of Lyon ended after it was disclosed that he received from the Anaconda Copper Mining Co. a pension that the company could revoke at will. Lyon asked that his name be withdrawn.

Lewis has described Forbes as a man who had 37 years' service and is amply qualified.

Under Secretary of the Interior Ralph A. Tudor announced yesterday it was agreed Forbes would remain in office until he retires. He will reach the mandatory retirement age of 70 in about two years.

Lewis and Harry M. Moses, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, conferred with Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay and Tudor Wednesday.

Tudor said yesterday Moses had suggested Forbes be retained until retirement.

There were unconfirmed reports that Lewis has the support of big coal operators for retention of Forbes or his replacement by someone satisfactory to Lewis's miners. However, Tudor said no commitment had been made by the department for Lewis to have veto power over a selection.

PRESIDENT STILL HAS SORE ELBOW, BURSITIS DENIED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower has a sore right elbow, "painful and annoying" but nothing to worry about, the White House reports.

Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told reporters late yesterday that Eisenhower's elbow was injured when knocked against a White House door about two months ago. It is being treated with heat and is progressing satisfactorily.

Hagerty denied a published report that Eisenhower has bursitis—an inflammation of a sac which "lubricates" the body's joints to reduce friction. Hagerty denied also the President has any calcium deposit in the elbow.

In fact, he said in response to questions, Eisenhower's health is excellent except for the sore arm.

Hagerty said the reason the Chief Executive has not played golf since he returned from his Colorado vacation two weeks ago was that he wanted to be with his three grandchildren. The children's parents, Maj. and Mrs. John Eisenhower, are returning to the White House this weekend from Fort Benning, Ga., where the President's son is now stationed.

NORWEGIAN PRINCE TAKEN INTO CROW INDIAN TRIBE

OSLO, Oct. 3 (AP)—Norway had a royal redskin today—Prince "Mountain Bird" Harald, a member of Montana's Crow tribe of Indians.

The 16-year-old prince, second in line for the Norwegian crown, was inducted into the tribe last night by Chief Donald Deernose in a solemn ceremony at the American Embassy. Twelve members of the tribe, here to perform tribal dances, witnessed the rite.

The new Crow's beaming parents, Crown Prince Olav and Crown Princess Martha also watched him don his feathered headdress. The Crows gave their first performance last night. Oslo is their first stop in a tour that will take them to other Scandinavian capitals, The Netherlands, Belgium, France, Morocco and Palestine.

British Battleship in Maneuvers Is Attacked by Friendly Aircraft

Lack of Common Radio System Is Pointed Up by Error in NATO Exercise in North Atlantic.

BY BRIG. GEN THOMAS R. PHILLIPS, U.S.A. (Ret.)
Military Analyst of the Post-Dispatch.

ABOARD UNITED STATES BATTLESHIP IOWA, Oct. 1 (Delayed)—The Striking Fleet Atlantic (NATO name), or the Fast Carrier Striking Force (United States name), under the command of V. Adm. Selby T. Combs, who wears two hats as commander of the United States second fleet, and as allied commander, Striking Fleet Atlantic, was refueled at sea yesterday off Iceland.

Winds reached 50 miles an hour on the open sea but there was relative calm off Iceland. During the same period the American correspondents with the striking fleet were transferred from the heavy cruiser Des Moines to the Iowa by helicopter.

The striking fleet consists of three aircraft carriers with 200 airplanes, two battleships, five cruisers and 20 destroyers—30 in all. In addition there are 13 ships in the logistic force to refuel and resupply the striking fleet. The petroleum refueling at sea from seven tankers was real. Resupply of provisions and ammunition was made with dummy crates. Theoretically this is a routine operation, but in reality this is about as routine as putting out an oil well fire or as winning a football game. Sometimes it is in the groove, but at others disaster stalks every movement.

Mistaken Attack.

While the Orange raider, played by the British cruiser Swiftsure, was officially determined intercepted and sunk yesterday by the British battleship Vanguard, it has now been determined that the Vanguard had been attacked by a formation of friendly aircraft, which mistook it for the Swiftsure, just before the Vanguard sank the raider.

This mixup was strictly one of those things that happen in international co-operation. Land-based Blue (our side) Air Force planes first sighted the raider and then lost it for a considerable time due to its skillful use of fog and weather for protection. When it was rediscovered by an airplane from the British carrier Eagle weather was bad, with visibility of one-half mile. The British early warning planes use very high frequency radio (VHF) while the American planes use ultra high frequency radio (UHF). They cannot communicate with each other.

The British plane which had rediscovered the raider had to return to its ship, or radio to it, the position of the raider, and this had to be transmitted to the American carrier for transmission to the American aircraft. American planes had been told that no friendly ships were in the vicinity. Planes from the American carriers went out and "bombed" the presumed raider, only to find later that it was the friendly battleship Vanguard. The silhouette of the two ships was similar.

A Disaster in War.

This would have been a disaster in war and points up the importance of such exercises as Mariner. It will take two years to provide all NATO sea forces with a common radio system. The problem has been well-known for a long time, but this demonstration of its importance may hasten a solution.

The Navy asked for bad weather when they placed the Mariner exercise in the Denmark strait and in the north Atlantic. They have had it. A few days ago wind exceeded 60 miles an hour and ships were rolling with loose gear bouncing from one side of the ship to the other. Crockery crashed from the tables and chairs became missiles.

A second storm has now caught up with the striking fleet. This storm has an untypical history. It showed up first off Newfoundland as an unobtrusive wave in the atmosphere, following the storm we were in by 700 miles. Attention was given mostly to the storm we were in. It was thought that the new storm, whatever it might be, was closing in and joining the other. At 4 a.m. there was no information concerning it. The leading storm was passing through the replenishment area.

At 10 a.m. yesterday the trailing storm suddenly developed a significant personality and covered an area of 800 square miles. At 4 p.m. it was located 375 miles south, southwest of Reykjavik, Iceland. The striking fleet passed through the western edge of the storm about 2 p.m. today. At this time the microbarograph went so low that it carried the needle off the indicating drum. After recalibration it went down seven points farther.

Winds are now between 40 and 50 miles an hour. Carriers are dipping their noses in the sea and water drains down the deck and flows out of the forward antiaircraft mounts like whales spouting.

Carrier Strikes Canceled.

As a result, the carrier strikes which had been planned against Orange airdromes in England have been canceled. The planes could take off, but the risk to personnel is too great to take for a mere maneuver.

The storm would have given an opportunity to the striking fleet. Adm. Combs, a Lamar (Mo.) boy, had he been given a free choice, would have turned westward, got behind the storm and followed toward Britain. His aircraft could have gone through it, while the Orange aircraft could easily have been stopped at the storm front in the search for his fleet. He could not do this because the maneuver must maintain its schedule.

This was precisely what the Japanese did at Midway in the last war. They followed a storm. Our patrol planes searching for the Japanese fleet turned back when they reached the storm front. The result was that the Japanese fleet was discovered 24 hours later than it might have been.

The striking fleet is now entering the sea area under the control of the commander in chief, East Atlantic. From now on it will be subject to attack by British (Orange) aircraft and submarines.

The weather is too rough for submarines to be a serious danger, even without the screen of 20 destroyers. By tomorrow morning the striking fleet will come under attack both by Orange submarines and Orange land-based aircraft.

30-DAY OUTLOOK: UNUSUALLY WARM FOR THIS REGION

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3 (AP)—The Weather Bureau today predicted October temperatures would average near seasonal normals over the northern third of the nation except for below normal in the Pacific Northwest.

In most central and southern portions of the country warmer than normal conditions are predicted, except for near normal over the Southeast and extreme Southwest.

The 30-day outlook for precipitation calls for greater than normal amounts over the Pacific Northwest, near normal in the East and Midwest, but subnormal rainfall in the remainder of the country.

SABOTAGED SHIP TO KEEP IT AT HOME, GETS 4 YEARS

DEVONPORT, England, Oct. 3 (UP)—Stoker-mechanic Anthony Charles Jones began serving a four-year sentence today for unscrewing handles from 21 boiler room valves on a frigate, throwing them overboard and cutting cables to the ship's steering mechanism with a hack saw.

Jones pleaded he was homesick and wanted to stop the ship from going to sea.

FINAL TRIBUTE PAID TO ERNST REUTER

1,000,000 in West Berlin Line Streets for Funeral Procession.

BERLIN, Oct. 3 (UP)—West Berlin buried its beloved Mayor Ernst Reuter today. More than 1,000,000 Berliners—from the free West sectors and the Red-ruled eastern third of the city—paid him final tribute. Reuter died unexpectedly last Tuesday.

The mourners were the men and women Reuter called his "heroes" during the year-long Soviet attempt to starve West Berlin into submission and force the Western Allies out through a blockade of all land and water transport to the city.

Almost one-third of the divided city's population packed Rudolph Wilde platz for a City Hall mourning rally or lined the eight-mile route of his funeral procession to Waldfriedhof cemetery in suburban Zehlendorf. Thousands crowded rooftops or clung to the ruins of bomb-ruined buildings.

Tens of thousands were East Germans, to whom Reuter's voice had become the voice of the free world. They crossed the guarded Iron Curtain frontier for a glimpse of his bier, carried on an open police truck, with his old beret atop his coffin.

West German President Theodor Heuss, United States High Commissioner James B. Conant, Gen. Thomas Handy and Lt. Gen. William Tunner, United States Air Force commander who directed the airlift during the Berlin blockade, were among high officials paying tribute.

President Eisenhower paid his tribute to Reuter in a telegram to Acting Mayor Walther Schreiber which said: "The passing of Mayor Ernst Reuter is a tragic loss to all the free world."

Honor guards of the American, British and French occupation forces and the West Berlin police were posted at the cemetery's entrance to salute the dead mayor for the last time.

DON'T PUSH INDIA AROUND, ACCEPT RED CHINA: NEHRU

MADRAS, India, Oct. 3 (UP)—Prime Minister Nehru appealed to the West today to recognize Communist China.

Nehru also, in a speech last night, said that India refuses to be "pushed about by others."

Some countries seem unable to understand India's policy, Nehru said, defining it as independent and not neutral.

"Our policy means a refusal to be pushed about," he said. "Any country which disapproves this policy must be thinking in terms of pushing the people of India a mound."

He expressed inability to understand some Western ideas that "somehow lack substance." Among those he referred to was the West's refusal to recognize "the great new China." He said certain countries had ignored the "patent facts of life."

GOV. DONNELLY OFFERS PLAN TO CUT HAY COSTS FOR DROUTH AID

Proposal Based on Lifting Freight Charges, Help in Distribution by M.F.A.—Hennings Resumes Tour.

By BOYD F. CARROLL
The Post-Dispatch Jefferson City Correspondent.

JEFFERSON CITY, Oct. 3—Gov. Phil M. Donnelly today proposed a plan for providing hay at a minimum cost to Missouri drouth-stricken farmers, following a conference with Senator Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (Dem.), Missouri, and officers of the Missouri Farmers Association.

He announced that he had requested the western railroads to grant a 50 per cent reduction in freight charges on shipments of hay from the northern plains states to Missouri, and that he has asked the Federal Government to pay the other half.

Donnelly said this would enable Missouri farmers to buy urgently-needed hay for livestock at only the cost of the hay purchased in South Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The cost would average about $20 a ton for the best grades, as compared to a cost of $35 to $40 a ton if the farmer also had to pay the freight charges.

M.F.A. Agreement.

The Governor announced also that M.F.A. agreed to purchase 100,000 tons of hay and resell it to farmers in its 250 farm exchanges in the state without profit, if the Governor's requests on the freight charges are accepted by the western railroads and the Government.

Although it is estimated Missouri livestock farmers will need about 1,000,000 tons of hay, Donnelly declared the M.F.A. offer would help relieve the hay shortage and give immediate relief. The M.F.A. would pay the costs of sending hay purchasers to the northern states and the distribution expenses in Missouri.

Donnelly sent telegrams today to the Western Traffic Association asking the railroads to grant the freight reduction and to Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson urging the Government to agree to pay the other half.

Preventive Action.

Hennings and Donnelly said the proposed action would "prevent the dispersal of many dairy herds and the ruin of many farmers in this state with a most serious impact on our national economy and food supply."

Hennings left the capital, after the conference with Donnelly, to resume his drouth inspection tour of the state.

Donnelly, in his telegram to Secretary Benson, said the state would pay all of the administrative expense of locating and purchasing the hay in other states, including buyers, agents and clerical work.

The Governor recalled that he had designated the entire state as a drouth disaster area. The Federal Government has approved 83 of the counties of federal disaster assistance and the other 31 are under consideration for approval by Federal officials.

"We are doing everything possible in Missouri in the existing emergency," the Governor said, "but are in need of immediate assistance from the Federal Government. Senator Hennings joins me in urging that this assistance be granted at once, in order that the present grave situation in this state may be temporarily relieved."

Co-operation Pledged.

By the United Press.

Meanwhile, Speaker Lester A. Vonderschmidt (Rep.), Mound City, pledged co-operation of House members should a special drouth session of the assembly be called.

Vonderschmidt, head of the Republican-controlled House, yesterday joined the growing list of legislators who have urged a special session to consider a state drouth-relief program. He urged that Donnelly, if he issues such a call, confine the meeting to drouth problems.

In telegrams to President Eisenhower and Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, Vonderschmidt repeated a request made earlier by Senator Hennings for federal help in hauling hay to Missouri farmers. Vonderschmidt suggested to the President that use of Army and National Guard vehicles to funnel the hay into Missouri from northern states "could be a relatively simple operation, finished in a few weeks."

Confers With Donnelly.

Vonderschmidt conferred with Donnelly on feasability of a state relief program for drouth farmers. He said following the conference the present emergency, in his opinion, complied with a constitutional requirement concerning allocation of state money for individual aid.

"We should under no circumstances consider political aspects of the situation by trading on the misery of our people," he said. "A few dollars in aid now on a planned program of reconstruction will permit many hundreds of our farm herds to be saved.

"It is better to use all of our state surplus rather than bankrupt a large segment of our citizens and industry.

"If the situation continues there will be a state-wide milk shortage with the attendant increase of milk prices."

He urged that an immediate court ruling be obtained to determine just what steps the Legislature could do to aid farmers.

In his telegrams to Washington, Vonderschmidt repeated warnings that Missouri's agricultural economy is headed for "ruinous consequences unless immediate help is obtained."

Mrs. F.D.R. Indorses Stevenson Plan for U.S. to Push Peace Talks

—By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

MRS. ELEANOR ROOSEVELT at panel discussion on United Nations. Seated at table, from left, are CLARK M. EICHELBERGER, H. JACKSON DANIEL and WILLIAM CURRAN, president of the St. Louis Council on World Affairs.

Visitor Here Says Conferences Better the Chance for 'Some Kind of Understanding.'

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today indorsed a proposal by Adlai E. Stevenson that the United States take the initiative in new peace talks with the Soviet Union on disarmament and other subjects.

Interviewed on her arrival here today at Union Station, Mrs. Roosevelt said she "always believed in conferences" as a means of settling the differences among nations.

"The more you talk the better your chances are for reaching some kind of understanding," she said.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who served as a United States delegate to United Nations General Assembly for several years and as American representative to the U.N. Human Rights Commission, said there was a grave question as to whether the Russians were now disposed to settlement of any of the major issues separating them from the free world.

She said, however, that even if some understanding could be reached with them on minor issues then the conferences proposed by the defeated Democratic candidate for President would be justified.

One of the difficulties Mrs. Roosevelt encountered in dealing with the Russians during her United Nations service, she said, was the language barrier.

"Talking through translators, I think, many of them said things in which we got the words but not necessarily their meaning and I suspect that the same thing happened at times when they got our words but not their real meaning," Mrs. Roosevelt added.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who is here for a panel discussion on the U.N. conducted by the St. Louis chapter, American Association for the United Nations, said she was "greatly surprised" by the growing interest in the U.N. in various parts of the nation.

As a volunteer worker for the association, which has its headquarters in New York, she has recently attended several conferences intended to stimulate interest in the U.N. and found the response "very encouraging."

In response to questions at the panel discussion, Mrs. Roosevelt said that "special interests, well organized and with money" are attacking the United Nations in increasing numbers. She described these groups as of the "Fascist and super-patriotic" type which flourished in this country during World War II.

She said that the best way to overcome apathy toward the U.N. is by "shock," getting people to realize that without cooperation among nations civilization could disappear under the weapons which have been created.

The U.N., she said, is not responsible for the world's troubles, adding "we shouldn't blame the boat for the storm." Defending the expenditure of funds through U.N. agencies helping backward countries to develop, she said "it costs money but the amount is infinitesimal compared to the cost of one day of war."

Mrs. Roosevelt was accompanied here by Clark Eichelberger, national director of the association, which is a non-governmental agency. She was met by H. Jackson Daniel and H. George Bloch, officers of the St. Louis chapter.

Following today's panel discussion at Hotel Chase, the wife of the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt will leave for Liberty, Mo., where she will lecture tomorrow afternoon.

ST. LOUIS IN LINE FOR COOLER FALL WEATHER TONIGHT

St. Louis will have a return to pleasant weather tomorrow after yesterday's record breaking 92 degrees at 2:30 p.m. in the downtown area and 94 at the weather station at Lambert-St. Louis Field. Previous high for Oct. 2 was 91 in 1867.

A cold front is expected to pass the St. Louis area about 6:30 p.m. today, sending the mercury down to near 60 tomorrow morning with an afternoon high tomorrow in the upper 70s, Assistant Meteorologist Arthur A. Rausch said. There is a chance of a few light showers late tonight, he said.

While many Midwestern cities reported unseasonably warm temperatures, the first snow of the season fell this morning at Cheyenne, Wyo.

St. Louisans, on the other hand, are in for another warm day. Temperatures are expected to reach the lower 90s before the cold front arrives. Record high for today is 91, established in 1897. Yesterday, Rausch pointed out, was the seventy-ninth day of the year with plus 90-degree weather. This last hot spell surpassed the record of 75 set in 1936.

HENRY HEINZ FUNERAL HELD; WAS RETIRED STEREOTYPER

Funeral services for Henry Heinz, retired stereotyper of the Post-Dispatch, were held today at the Drehmann-Harrall undertaking establishment, 1905 Union boulevard, followed by burial in Calvary Cemetery.

Mr. Heinz, 89 years old, died of a cerebral hemorrhage Tuesday in St. Petersburg, Fla., where he had lived since his retirement in 1948.

Mr. Heinz made the first lead engraving of a newspaper picture in St. Louis when he was working for the old Kellog Newspaper Co. He then worked for a number of years for the old St. Louis Times. He was employed as a stereotyper at the Post-Dispatch more than 25 years before his retirement. Surviving is his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth Heinz of St. Petersburg.

One Inch of Snow in Wyoming.

DENVER, Oct. 3 (AP) — A storm front out of the north dropped snow in Wyoming early today and moved into northern Colorado. Snow ranged from traces at Rawlins and Lander to an inch at Laramie, home of the University of Wyoming. Cheyenne reported .05 of an inch of snow. It was 12 degrees above zero at Big Piney, coldest spot in the nation.

Connaghan, 30 years old and married, was graduated from St. Louis University Law School in 1951. During World War II he was an Air Force pilot and was recalled to active duty in March 1951. He served until last July at George Air Force Base in Victorville, Calif., as pilot and legal officer.

During the summer of 1949 he worked as an auditor in the city license collector's office.

TWO MEN KILLED, 20 TRAPPED; OIL TANK COLLAPSES

Underground Container Gives Way When Roof Is Installed at Everett, Mass.

EVERETT, Mass., Oct. 3 (AP) —Two men were killed and 20 or more trapped today when a huge tank being installed underground for the Esso Standard Oil Co. collapsed as a concrete roof was being poured.

Several workmen of Aberthaw Construction Co. of Boston, which was building the tank, were on the roof pouring concrete on the steel-girdered top when the roof collapsed, hurling girders and concrete on the heads of other workmen below.

A spokesman for the Esso company said two were known dead and at least 20 injured.

Hospital Crowded.

The facilities of the Whidden Memorial hospital were being taxed and ambulances were ready to take the injured to other hospitals.

The under-ground tank, was 30 feet deep, 100 feet long and 100 feet wide. It was to be used for storage purposes.

As a fleet of 30 ambulances lined up like taxicabs outside a busy terminal a huge crane was brought into play to haul out the injured.

Wooden baskets were lowered into the debris and the injured placed in the baskets one by one. When they were brought to the surface they were taken from the baskets, wrapped in blankets and placed on stretchers.

An ambulance rushed away as each injured man was placed in it.

The hospital asked the Red Cross for 15 cots and blankets which were rushed to the hospital.

Hearses Used as Ambulances.

Ambulances were sped from Boston and as far away as Lynn, 15 miles to the north. Undertakers' hearses were brought into use carrying the injured away.

As the rescue operations moved rapidly on, anxious relatives of workmen gathered at the scene.

So heavy was the traffic on Broadway, which runs from Everett to Boston, that automobiles were at a standstill for miles.

Men in charge of the rescue operations said the wet concrete was about 15 inches thick and was being poured on a wooden frame when wooden underpinnings gave way.

They described the undercover of the roof, just below the concrete, as steel reinforced wires. Twenty doctors were on hand to examine and aid the injured.

Everett is an industrial city of 45,000 residents, across the Mystic river from Boston.

A spokesman at the Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston, about three miles from the scene said:

"They're (victims) just coming in now. Two stretchers just went by. I can't tell you anything more now."

EAST ST. LOUIS BUS SERVICE RESUMED, 75 RUNS

Bus operation of the East St. Louis City Lines were running smoothly today after service was resumed at 3:38 o'clock this morning. Employes of the company ended a 10-week strike following acceptance of a new contract Thursday night.

Homer Ammon, superintendent of the company, said busses were operating 75 full runs on six lines and more would be added as the demand arose. Prior to the strike busses made 87 runs daily. There will be more "tripper" service, which is added during peak hours, although initially fewer full eight-hour runs will be made, he said.

The bus company's employes, members of Local 125, Amalgamated Street Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes of America voted to accept the new contract 75 to 43.

It provides for a 10-cent increase in two steps and a no-strike, no-lockout clause. Six of the 10 cents will be paid retroactively to last June 1 except for the period of the strike, while the remaining 4 cents will be paid beginning next June 1, George Rampenthal, union president said.

$2,826,293 REFUND ORDERED FOR NATURAL GAS SUPPLIER

A $2,826,293 refund from United Gas Pipeline Co. of Shreveport, La., to Mississippi River Fuel Corp., supplier of gas to the St. Louis area, was ordered by a Federal Power Commission examiner in Washington yesterday.

The order, relating to natural gas sold by the Louisiana company to Mississippi Fuel from March 1949 to Dec. 31, 1952, becomes final unless a review is directed in 30 days.

Interpretation of a supplement to a rate schedule approved by the commission in December 1949 was the basis of the dispute leading to the proceedings.

MAN IS STABBED TO DEATH

Tom Hebron, a laborer, was stabbed to death early today near his home at 3024 Thomas street.

Witnesses told police that Hebron was walking on the sidewalk when a woman dressed in red stepped from an automobile, stabbed Hebron in the chest, and then fled in the vehicle. Hebron, a Negro, was 42 years old.

CITY FILES PLEA TO INTERVENE ON P.S.CO. FARE RISE

Petition Calls Proposed Increases 'Wholly Unwarranted and Unjustified.'

A request to intervene in opposition to the Public Service Co.'s application for an additional 'rate 'increase was filed today by the City Counselor's office with the Missouri Public Service Commission.

The city's petition said the company had proposed increases in bus and streetcar fares which would exceed $1,000,000 a year and that such increases were "wholly unwarranted and unjustified and contrary to the public interest."

The petition was filed after the Board of Aldermen yesterday adopted a resolution expressing opposition to the proposed rate increase and pledging the co-operation of the board with the city counselor in opposing the application.

The resolution was introduced by Alderman Everett J. Taylor, chairman of the Committee on Traffic & Traffic Regulations, who was named as chairman of a special committee of aldermen to work with the Counselor's office against fare increases.

Other members of the committee are Walter W. Ziegenbalg (Dem.), Fourth Ward; Clinton Watson (Dem.), Sixteenth Ward; William C. Brady (Dem.), Twenty-sixth Ward, and Fred Haag (Rep.), Twelfth Ward.

He was a son of Police Capt. Durward B. Norris, who died in 1949. Before moving to New York three years ago when he was transferred to the shoe firm's sales department, Mr. Norris lived at 120 Orchard avenue, Webster Groves.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Alisbel Norris, two daughters, Judith and Julie Norris of Bronxville, his mother, Mrs. Blanche Schneider, and a brother, Police Cpl. Joseph Norris of St. Louis.

57 GRANITE CITY STORES CLOSED IN LABOR DISPUTE

A group of 57 Granite City retail stores, members of the Associated Retailers and Civic Association, was closed today after members of AFL Retail Clerks Local 435 went on strike over wages yesterday at three downtown stores. About 350 employes are affected.

The union rejected the association's offer of a 2½ cents to 5½ cents hourly increase Thursday night. It asks for an across-the-board rise of 10 cents an hour. Present wages are 70½ cents to $1.11 per hour for women clerks and 83 cents to $1.23½ for men for a 40-hour week. The maximum would be reached after 18 months of employment. A one-year contract expired Wednesday.

Mark Robbins, president of the association, described the action as "a layoff" until an agreement is reached. The union termed the association's act a lockout. The strike does not affect grocery stores because their employes are represented by another branch of the local.

GANG OF 12 TEEN-AGE BOYS ARRESTED ON EAST SIDE

A gang of 12 teen-age boys were being held for juvenile authorities today by East St. Louis police after they were arrested on complaints of residents of the Alta Sita area that the neighborhood had been "terrorized for the second consecutive night."

Police reported the gang, from Alorton and Centreville, had been driving in the area at speeds up to 70 miles an hour. One woman said she had been chased into her house by the boys.

They were arrested in the 2900 block of Market avenue and were afoot when apprehended. An automobile owned by parents of one of the youths was found nearby.

Four Youths Finish 2500-Mile, 108-Day Trip on Horseback

Group Rides From Austin, Tex., to Bearsville, N.Y.—Received 'Wonderful Receptions on Way.'

BEARSVILLE, N.Y., Oct. 3 (AP)—"Boy, going back to school will be a vacation after this," said Cayla Hitzig, 17 years old, as she slid off her horse.

Miss Hitzig, her brother, Rupert, 15, Nina Galpin, 23, and Bruce Whitely, 16, arrived by horseback yesterday after a 108-day, 2500-mile ride from Austin, Tex.

The idea for the adventure originated with Miss Galpin, who attended the University of Texas in Austin. After school ended last spring, the three others flew to Texas. The four bought eight horses and pack trip equipment and started east June 15.

They were greeted by dozens of friends as they arrived at the farm house of Dr. and Mrs. William Hitzig, parents of the Hitzig boy and girl, in this Ulster county community near New York City.

As word of their trek got around, the young riders were generally given what they termed "wonderful receptions."

In one town, however, they were mistaken for gypsies, but they talked themselves out of that one.

In Tennessee, one of their horses got sick and was left behind.

But they picked up a dog. Or rather a puppy picked them up in the same state.

"It wouldn't stop following us," said Miss Hitzig.

"It was so little then you could almost hold it in your hand."

Now it's a respectable sized pup, named Sammy.

$6500 FIRE DAMAGE AT CARPENTERS' HALL

Three Alarms Sounded in Blaze Discovered After Union Meeting.

Damage estimated at $6500 was caused by fire of undetermined origin early today at Carpenters' Hall, Grand boulevard and Cozens avenue. A fireman was injured in fighting the blaze.

Three alarms, the first sounded shortly before midnight, brought nine pumpers and other Fire Department equipment to the two-story brick building.

Patrolman Oliver Doepke, one of three persons who turned in the first alarm, said he saw flames billowing through the second floor, where Carpenters' Local 45 had ended a meeting shortly before. Some union members were on the first floor when the fire was discovered.

Fireman Donald Morgan of Hook and Ladder Co. 5 suffered a cut tendon of the left thumb when struck by flying glass.

The building houses the AFL Central Trades and Labor Union, Carpters' District Council and three carpenters' locals, Upholsters' Local 25, Laundry Workers' Local 108, Barbers' Local 102, Firemen and Oilers' Local 6, Retail Store Employes' Local 655, as well as a tavern and a furniture store.

"he knew too much and they dared not release him." The father tried to pay the $28,000 ransom demanded but could not make contact with the abductor.

More than 25,000 suspects in the Mattson case were screened by authorities in many parts of the country.

Flurry of Excitement.

A brief flurry of excitement was caused early today when an automobile sped past the Greenlease home before dawn, but nothing came of it. Newsmen stirred, but as dawn broke there was no further activity in or around the big house. Bobby's toy French poodle, Honeyboy, took his usual early run, but that was all.

The boy's parents said again last night that they were only waiting and hoping.

A dark-haired woman about 35 years old, pretending to be Bobby's aunt, took him from the French Institute of Notre Dame de Sion, a private Catholic school, last Monday morning. She got him by saying his mother was ill. She used a taxicab. The driver last saw them standing beside a light blue car at a parking lot.

The cab driver, Willard Creech, had reported at first that the woman had red hair, but after thinking some more he changed his mind and said, "Her hair may have been auburn or dark brown, but it certainly wasn't red."

FORMAL ATTIRE DECREED AT BALL OF VEILED PROPHET

One of the requirements for guests attending the Veiled Prophet diamond jubilee ball Tuesday at Kiel Auditorium is formal attire, it was announced today.

Formal attire or full dress for men was explained as to include tail coats, white ties and white waistcoats. Service men may wear their dress uniforms on the floor of the ball.

Those who will view the ceremonies from the auditorium gallery will not be required to wear formal clothes. They will not be permitted on the ballroom floor.

The request for full dress attire for guests goes back to 1878 when His Mysterious Majesty issued a similar edict before the first parade and ball, which followed in Merchants Exchange Building.

BOY REFUSED DATE TELLS GIRL SHOOT; SHE DOES, HE DIES

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (UP) — A high school girl said today she shot a 14-year-old boy with a pistol she thought was a toy when he urged her to shoot him yesterday after she refused him a date. The shooting occurred in a general science class of 25.

The boy, Patrick Colletta, died in a hospital several hours after a .32 caliber bullet struck him above the right eye.

Bernice Turner, 14, admitted firing the pistol, which she said Colletta dropped on her desk after she refused to date him.

"You think I'm a bad boy, don't you?" Colletta said. "Go ahead, pull the trigger, Pull it hard," she said he told her.

She did.

Other students screamed at the sound of the explosion. Colletta slumped to the floor, blood flowing from a wound in his head.

The teacher led the pupils into another room until police took the boy to the hospital.

Police held the girl pending an inquest. They also investigated as to where the boy acquired a pistol.

3 KILLED IN ILLINOIS HIGHWAY AUTO CRASH

Car of East St. Louisans Collides With Truck Near Livingston.

Three East St. Louis residents were killed early today when their automobile collided with a truck on U.S. Highway 66 near Livingston, Ill., 30 miles northeast of St. Louis.

The dead are: Minor McDonald, 65 years old, 1941 McCasland avenue; his nephew, Milton McDonald, 24, packing-house worker, 1910 Converse avenue, and Thomas Jefferson Robinson, 30, laborer, 112 South Main street. All are Negroes.

Curtis Williams, Negro, 3041 Lawton boulevard, St. Louis, was injured seriously. He was taken to Community Memorial Hospital at Staunton, Ill.

State highway patrolmen said the automobile was passing a tractor-trailer when it collided head-on with a truck driven by Lloyd Cain of Decatur, Ill. The automobile caught fire and the McDonalds burned to death. Robinson died later of a broken neck.

Joseph Ingram Jr., 5 months old, was killed early today and four other St. Louisans were injured in an automobile collision on U.S. Highway 40 near Plainfield, Ind.

Those hurt included the baby's parents, 1719 Biddle street, and Elmo Robinson and Ned Robinson, both of the Biddle street address. All are Negroes.

John M. Whitaker of Dixon, Mo., was killed last night when the automobile he was driving struck another machine in a headon collision on U.S. Highway 66 near Times Beach in St. Louis county.

Whitaker, 23 years old, was pronounced dead on arrival at St. Louis County Hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Wickes, occupants of the other automobile, are in a serious condition at the hospital, suffering from head injuries and multiple fractures of the arms and ribs.

HINDU MUSIC TO BE TRIED IN HUNT FOR MISSOURI COBRAS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 3 (AP) — The music of a Hindu snake charmer will be used in an effort to lure into the open any more hooded cobras hiding in the city. Already nine of the snakes have been killed in a six square block area.

City officials heard a recording yesterday of a snake charmer's music, straight from India, the land of the hooded cobras. They were impressed. Next Monday they will put the record on a sound truck and tour the section where the cobras have appeared.

The record is one made by the Rev. Luther Meinzen, a Lutheran missionary. It was cut while a Hindu snake charmer piped three cobras from a thicket around the minister's home in India.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A Church Objects

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In your issue of Sept. 12, in a story entitled "Medical Society Indorses Fluoridation," a quotation from a committee report of the St. Louis Medical Society stated: "There is no authoritative expression of opposition (to fluoridation) from any religious sect."

Contrary to the above, may I say that many months ago as the authorized representative in Missouri of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass., I registered objections to fluoridation with the Board of Aldermen on behalf of the Christian Scientists of St. Louis.

Christian Scientists object to fluoridation on the ground that it is compulsory medicine, a form of socialized medicine, or state medicine. Under fluoridation they would not be left free to practice their religion, but would be forced to take medicine. The practice of Christian Science does not include the use of drugs as is shown by the following from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy (p. 453). "A Christian Scientist's medicine is Mind, the divine Truth that makes man free."

It is appreciated that only that action should be furthered which provides the greatest good. But what is the greatest good? Is it in the mass medication of our drinking water? Or is it not rather in the preservation of our individual freedom—freedom of choice in the matter of health?

Rejection by the citizens of mass medication, or fluoridation, will maintain that precious freedom and at the same time interfere in no way with the right of individuals to avail themselves of the topical application of fluorides which is considered a feasible program, or to use whatever other means they feel will be best for them in the care and preservation of their teeth.

WILSON M. RILEY,
Committee on Publication for Missouri.

Kansas City.

As to Stevenson's Trip

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I think a letter published in your column Sept. 20 and signed Marge Matthews needs answering.

For Miss Matthews's information, Adlai Stevenson DID NOT make what she calls a good-will tour at his own expense, but was paid a very handsome sum by Look magazine and he was making this trip personally and for profit.

HENRY C. WESTERSON.

'Savage Stupidity'

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Since Adlai Stevenson in his report to the nation was most polite and more than generous in his lack of criticism of the Republican Administration, it is difficult to understand the rowdy, mad-dog bellowing set loose upon Mr. Stevenson by the Republican leaders at their female elephant convention a few days later.

One wonders if such clamor was raised in defense of a terrible guilt complex present in their leadership or, if Senator Dirksen, et al., were merely following an oft-time workable formula of when confronted with pure intelligence, quickly jam the thinking waves with loud and savage stupidity. L. T. K.

Dilly-Dallying on Drouth

A special session of Congress for drouth relief will be needed if the Administration can find no other way to effective action. A special session of the Missouri Legislature to deal with the drouth disaster should be called in any event. It will hold more promise of a thoroughgoing program than otherwise, and it was already needed to take care of St. Louis's finances through the earnings tax.

There has already been too much talk, too much indecision, too much tendency to temporize and expect the other fellow to do something about drouth relief, both at Jefferson City and at Washington.

This relieves no family distress. It feeds no hungry cattle. Farmers with the public calamity of drouth at their throats are told that Gov. Donnelly cannot act to save them until he finds out whether the drouth is legally a public calamity. It will be a worse calamity if Gov. Donnelly cannot quickly make up his mind.

Farmers facing almost superhuman obstacles to keeping their herds together and financially surviving the winter are told that the Administration at Washington is deterred from operating a haylift by "administrative obstacles." Are these obstacles greater than those the farmers confront? And what administrative obstacles cannot be overcome by good administration? That is what administration is for.

At both levels of government the emergency is being met with a lack of expedition as though there were no emergency—as though it were an ordinary situation which could be disposed of by government-as-usual methods. Unless state and federal governments can act more efficiently and more effectively than this in response to disaster, they will not be discharging their responsibilities.

Furthermore, they will almost certainly have much more of an emergency on their hands later. Washington and Jefferson City need the sense of urgency, verging on desperation, that is felt by the many thousands of rural families caught in the grip of this national disaster.

Legislative sentiment for a special session is growing, as indeed it should. Speaker of the House Lester A. Vonderschmidt of Mound City has joined State Senator Michael Kinney of St. Louis and others in urging that the Governor act. United States Senators Hennings and Symington continue to press at both state and national fronts. But full appreciation of the extent of this disaster has not yet begun to dawn on those who are now responsible for its alleviation.

The Wizard Defied

When they sing of Carl Erskine, it ought to be in iambic pentameter. Only the heroic couplet can do justice to this one Dodger who wasn't bothered by the strange hex that emanates from Casey Stengel during the first week in October.

Having blown two one-run leads, the Dodgers Friday seemed bound by an iron fate to blow another. There was the wizard, pacing up and down before the Yankee bench, foxily plotting the same crushing reversal he had managed twice before, and there were the Dodgers, gripped by the inexplicable inertia that often comes upon them when up against old Case.

But Carl Erskine wasn't having any of that double whammy stuff, even if he had to break a world series strikeout record to shake it off. The crafty Case reached into his bag of left-handers and presented them, one by one. Bollweg struck out. The awesome Johnny Mize struck out. Noren walked. And then Joe Collins retired with the greatest of ease on a squibbling grounder, Erskine to Hodges.

Stengel looks like a genius when he makes just the right decision to win a ball game. But in the ninth inning Friday he looked like just another manager, trying to pull one out of the fire and finding that nothing seemed to work—all on account of a 28-year-old right hander name of Carl Erskine, who struck out more batters than any other world series pitcher had ever fanned, who handled one end or the other of 17 out of 27 put-outs, and who showed Stengel what it means to have everything under control.

Lashly vs. Holman to a Decision

It is not often that St. Louisans—or the people of any other community for that matter—have the opportunity to see and hear two past presidents of the American Bar Association letting go at each other from opposite sides of an important public issue. Yet that is what is scheduled for St. Louis Monday night when Jacob M. Lashly of St. Louis, 1940-41, meets Frank E. Holman of Seattle, 1949-50, in a forensic bout at St. Louis University Auditorium, 3642 Lindell.

The subject is the Bricker resolution to amend the Constitution. This is the proposal, now pending in Congress, which would very severely, perhaps disastrously, reduce the authority of the President in the discharge of his historic as well as constitutional duty to conduct the foreign affairs of the nation. The importance of the issue can be judged from the assertion of Arthur H. Dean, a leading member of the New York bar, in the current Foreign Affairs quarterly that under the Bricker resolution "the powers of a sovereign state would be emasculated."

This is a question not for lawyers alone but for all the American people to decide. It is so hard-fought that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, after having favored the amendment a year ago, now opposes it. There ought to be a lot of Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Publics in the hall when Messrs. Lashly and Holman weigh in. It is everybody's government that the verbal scrap will be about.

A Mood in a Pin-stripe, Please

Mrs. Eisenhower's remark that she chooses the color of her dresses according to the way she feels is something that can be understood by men as well as by women. "In the morning I may feel like blue," the First Lady says. "By afternoon it may be red."

It is the same way with men. By afternoon they may be at work, however, and so they have to choose more carefully at the start of the day than women do. Either that, or take care to keep feeling in the same color mood all day. Otherwise men are likely to get caught in the middle of the afternoon in a red mood with a blue tie on, and nothing can be done about it.

Some men like to simplify their moods by having one gray suit and tie, and one blue suit and tie. This eliminates at one stroke all the intermediate moods such as plaids, green with speckles, and houndstooth, which because of their complex nature are less stable and more likely to run out on one's inner feelings as the day wears on.

That simplicity is the best guide to good taste in clothes has long been known. It is gradually getting to be better known that the same goes for moods. The constant endeavor of all of us should be to simplify our moods, avoiding those with loud checks and complicated mottles, and trying to stick to plain patterns. In that way we can best be sure that our clothes and our moods will match, and stay matched.

India in the Middle

The Government of India and its troops are put in an unfortunate position by the attempted break-out of anti-Communist North Korean war prisoners. Already sources unfriendly to India are using the incidents to imply that India's Government is too friendly toward the Communist enemy.

Yet, except for the political attitude of the prisoners, what happened here was about what happened to American troops who were compelled to fire on prisoners on Koje island months ago. There the prisoners were mostly Chinese Communists and their violence forced the guards to open fire to restore order. India's troops, bound by the truce to guard the anti-Communist Koreans, fired for the same reasons.

Yet Syngman Rhee's South Korean Government and the Chinese Nationalists have both accused the Indian guards of violating truce terms and have indirectly implied that the Indians are pro-Communist. These accusations seem highly political. They would not have been made had the guards' guns been aimed at men who wanted to return to the Communist side.

The Indians' role as neutral guards and arbiters in the prisoner issue is a most difficult but necessary one under the truce agreement. The United Nations should investigate the prisoner incidents thoroughly before accepting any proposition that the Indians acted in bad faith.

Ten Long Weeks

The East St. Louis bus strike has ended after 10 long weeks. There was no winner. On the average, each of the union workers lost about $900 in wages, and losses suffered both by the operating company and by East St. Louis business men have been substantial. Why, then, was the strike permitted to continue so long?

Perhaps the principal difficulty grew out of the bus firm's insistence on negotiating only between Tuesday and Friday of each week. East St. Louis City Lines is a subsidiary of National City Lines of Chicago — the same firm that controls St. Louis Public Service Co.—and the East Side bus officials had little power to make decisions. Officials from Chicago were in command, but they were on a four-day week.

Failure of the East St. Louis City Administration to play a more vigorous role in behalf of that community of more than 80,000 also was a factor in the long, drawn-out pace of the negotiations. Even so, most people are likely to think the strike would have ended sooner had one of the principals not been an absentee owner.

Obviously Disqualified

The irony of sending Gov. Byrnes or South Carolina to the U.N. where representatives of different colored skins meet and talk as equals, becomes increasingly apparent. He has now been assigned to be the top United States delegate on a U.N. committee which is to study race troubles in South Africa.

What an assignment for the Governor who has declared in favor of the closing of the public schools of his state in the event that the Supreme Court decides that racial segregation in public schools violates the United States Constitution! What a task for the man whose U.N. appointment was sharply protested by many American citizens on the ground that he was steeped in racial prejudice!

Meantime Archibald J. Carey Jr., of Chicago, Negro member of the United States delegation at the U.N. who might well have a contribution to make to the African problem, has been left off the racial issues committee.

It all recalls the old saying that the Army assigns personnel to do anything and everything except that for which they are trained and equipped. Clearly the Army has nothing on the United States delegation at the U.N.!

'Flexible' as Well as 'Sound'

A new word was required to explain Treasury Secretary Humphrey's announcement that less interest will be paid on one type of Government security, and the department's money managers rose to the occasion. This, they declared, demonstrates the Treasury's "flexible" money policy which can lead to cuts as well as boosts in interest rates.

For the citizen whose taxes pay the higher interest Mr. Humphrey has been offering to finance Government, "flexible" money ought to be a refreshing note. When the Secretary first took office, he was given to speaking of his "hard" money policy. Translated, that always added up to the Government paying higher interest on the funds it borrowed. And when "hard" money began driving up the cost of private borrowing, Mr. Humphrey quickly switched to "sound" money, which meant the same thing.

The "flexible" money policy evidently was brought on by an abnormal demand from business corporations for a type of two-year savings note which, since last May, has been carrying the relatively high interest rate of 2.47 per cent. Mr. Humphrey or one of his assistants apparently realized that he had set the rate too high last spring.

Many people will regard this as a commendable though somewhat disguised admission of an honest error in judgment. Also, they are likely to hope it doesn't happen too often. Poor judgment in this field can be mighty costly indeed.

Advice From the Police Chiefs

The citizens commission on law enforcement in St. Louis county ought not to give much weight to the advice against creating a county-wide law enforcement agency that was offered by the 30 police chiefs and marshals. These officers are all from the county, and they all have a strong vested interest in maintaining the status quo. Certainly they are not going to bite the hand that feeds them.

Moreover, the chiefs and marshals themselves provided a clear reason for rejecting their own advice. Under questioning by commission members, they agreed that law enforcement in the county is impeded by the fact they are prohibited from crossing into neighboring communities to make an arrest unless a felony is involved.

Surely the best way to eliminate that impediment is to create a county-wide system under which the police could chase a law-breaker anywhere in the county. And if this will aid police work in the county, why not aid it in the entire metropolitan area by creating a metropolitan force that could provide efficient and economical protection in both city and county?

A Country Doctor's Advantages

The Mirror of Public Opinion

Physician in Ozarks says good roads give him the aid of hospitals and specialists in larger centers; after 30 years in small town, he wonders why young graduates don't choose its quieter living, good income, warm friendships, opportunity for service.

Dr. E. Claude Bohrer of West Plains, President of the Missouri State Medical Association, in an Address to the Mississippi Valley Medical Association at Springfield, Ill.

Rural practice is the type of practice in which I am engaged in an Ozark town of about 5000 close to the southern boundary of Missouri. The development during my experience which, to my mind, has most affected the conduct of rural practice has been the establishment of the great network of highways and secondary roads.

Villages and some towns of modest size ceased to serve as trading centers as that function gradually became concentrated in a smaller number of larger towns and cities. These larger communities attracted the rural physicians, who naturally wanted to care for their patients where the hospitals and other facilities needed for the practice of modern scientific medicine were located.

Dr. Bohrer

Although this has left many small cross-road villages without a single medical doctor, the growth of our highway system and the establishment of modern medical facilities in communities regarded now as natural trading centers have made it possible for the medical profession to give the people of rural areas a type of medical service never approached—never dreamed of, for that matter—when I began my career 30 years ago.

What has taken place can be fairly called a revolution in the practice of medicine. Though there are many fewer—and indeed, too few—doctors throughout the countryside, it is an important fact that these doctors are better trained and better equipped to give scientific medical care than ever was possible before.

With present-day diagnostic facilities, the general practitioner in the country can provide a thoroughly effective service for people in a wide area around his town.

He can—and does—have close at hand, in terms of travel time if not in miles, the hospital facilities and the medical services available in larger population centers of his state.

He is able, to an extent no country doctor has ever been able before, to see to it that the people he serves have full access to all the resources of scientific medicine.

In this connection, the role of our colleagues in the various specialties cannot be overlooked. By their continuing progress in medical knowledge—in all its modern extent and complexity—they have played a great part in making possible the kind of medical care we rural practioners are able to give today.

Practice in a rural community today offers the competent, sincere physician an opportunity for professional service that cannot be excelled.

My own deep appreciation of small-town life sometimes makes it hard for me to understand why choosing between practice in the country and the major metropolitan area becomes such a great and difficult decision for so many young medical graduates to make, particularly for general practitioners whose services are so urgently needed in rural areas.

In addition to the important opportunity for a service that measures up to the highest ideals of our profession, the small community provides a way of living that stands in sharp contrast with the intense activity of the city. And, in so far as income is concerned, the small town will give the able and conscientious doctor all that he could desire for himself and his family.

It will give him much more. It will give him close and lasting friendships. It will give him, if he deserves it, a place of honor in civic affairs. In short, it will give him a good life and a life rich in service to the people, his traditional first responsibility.

Mr. Nixon's Hard Labor

From The New York Post

Not since his celebrated campaign telecast has Richard Nixon faced so gruelling an assignment as when he went before the American Federation of Labor convention and, with a perfectly serious countenance, insisted that the Eisenhower Administration is just about the best friend the working man—and everybody else—ever had.

This time Dick faced it alone; neither Pat nor Checkers was at his side as he told the story. Judging from the cool response of the assemblage, he could have used help.

Nixon took pains to insist that the President did not repudiate an earlier commitment to support revisions of the Taft-Hartley law at the recent congressional session. But the details of this argument are considerably less important than the fact that nothing was done about Taft-Hartley revision—one of the major pledges in the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign platform. Wait till next year, Nixon implored; but the cautious generalizations contained in the President's message to the convention hardly sounded as if any real revision is in prospect.

The delegates must be forgiven for failing to cheer Nixon as loudly as the American Bankers Association delegates applauded Administration spokesmen at the A.B.A. conclave the same week.

Plight of Missouri Towns

From The Pleasant Hill Times

We congratulate the winners in Pleasant Hill's biennial city election (though it is necessary to write this before the election is held, and we cannot name the victors). We congratulate them, however, not on winning, but on being willing to serve the community in positions of trust that pay little in either money or praise, but are highly necessary to the town's welfare.

The central fact about small-city government in Missouri is that our state, more than most, shows little sympathy for the welfare of its small towns. Missouri makes it hard for any town to acquire the income its city government really ought to have.

Missouri statutes governing cities are still largely horse-and-buggy laws, but Missouri towns have modern problems. Until they are partly met in the modern way, with a just share of the revenues collected by the state, mayors and councils will not be able to provide the kind of improvements that are justified by the times.

Between Book Ends

The Loves of George Sand

LELIA: THE LIFE OF GEORGE SAND, by Andre Maurois, translated from the French by Gerard Hopkins. (Harper & Bros., 482 pgs., $5.)

Charles J. Rollo in The Atlantic.

The name of George Sand evokes the image of a woman who was the grande passion of Chopin's life; who liked to wear a man's costume; and who was the author of innumerable novels which nowadays are seldom read. She is one of the few writers whose life story is more durably fascinating than any of their fictions.

Born Aurore Dupin in 1804—the product of a background in which aristocracy and illegitimacy were picturesquely intertwined—George Sand became the queen of French Letters in her day; and her work was greatly admired by such masters as Flaubert, Dostoevski and later Proust. But M. Maurois has not encumbered his narrative with critical apologetics for a neglected genius. Drawing on much hitherto unpublished material, including many intimate letters, he has given us a rich biography of a truly extraordinary woman — a close-up of the life of the heart in the Romantic Era.

George Sand

Like most extraordinary beings, George Sand is—superficially—a creature full of paradox. This grande amoureuse, to whom no end of brilliant men succumbed, was a strikingly masculine figure with a fondness for smoking large cigars. This woman who jettisoned—and, some said, destroyed—so many lovers was ruled, above all, by the maternal instinct. What she sought out was weakness; she wanted lovers who would be sons.

She epitomized in her life the Romanticism of her century, responded to all its doctrines and ideals; but no bourgeois could have been more unwaveringly industrious.

One can readily understand the mortification of her lovers who, even in the first fine frenzy of a new romance, found themselves banished daily from Madame's presence while she turned out her statutory 20 pages of copy.

Heine has left us a portrait which does not altogether explain her tremendous appeal:

"Beautiful auburn hair falling to her shoulders; rather lusterless and sleepy eyes, but calm and gentle; a smile of great good nature; a somewhat . . . husky voice, difficult to hear, for George is far from talkative."

Her magnetism no doubt stemmed in part from a stunning vitality. She would often write for 14 hours at a stretch, then mount her horse and gallop miles to a lover's rendezvous.

Maurois's biography of Madame Sand convincingly resolves the apparent paradoxes; and the life of its heroine is expertly fitted into the immensely lively picture of her times. "Lelia" (the title is taken from one of George Sand's novels) is perhaps the most solid achievement of a famous biographer whose works are always inviting but not always solid.

Spirit and Sport in Japan

ZEN IN THE ART OF ARCHERY, by Eugene Herrigel. (Pantheon, 109 pgs., $2.)

Sports in Japan, through the influence of Zen Buddhism, have a religious meaning. The author, a German professor of philosophy who has taught in Tokyo, tells of his six-year training from a Japanese archery master, in which the repetition of ritual, correct breathing and concentration developed a detached state of mind as well as skill as an archer.

Though shrouded in mystical language, this account seems sound. The Zen "detachment" seems to have much in common with the psychological concept of "integration."

ANNUAL MEETING OF METHODISTS IS CONVENED

Bishop Holt Presides Over St. Louis Annual Conference at Poplar Bluff—450 Delegates.

The St. Louis Annual Conference of the Methodist Church opened today at First Methodist Church, Poplar Bluff, Mo. Bishop Ivan Lee Holt is presiding over the sessions, which are expected to end late on Wednesday.

ATTENDANCE RECORD HONORED BY CHURCH

Ronald Daab Has Not Missed Sunday School in 35 Years.

On the first Sunday in October, 1918, Mr. and Mrs. George Daab took their 4-year-old son Roland to Sunday school at the family church, St. Paul's Evangelical and Reformed Church, Columbia, Ill.

Last Sunday Roland Daab was honored by his church for completing 35 years of perfect attendance at Sunday school. The recognition service was conducted by the pastor, the Rev. Gerhart A. Frkz, and Daab received a letter from the congregation praising him for his "Christian stewardship of time."

His father and mother are dead.

On Oct. 18, 1945, the Post-Dispatch carried a story about Roland Daab under the headline, "27-year Sunday School Record Unbroken by War." S. Sgt. Daab had just been discharged by the Army after serving a year and a half overseas in which he won seven battle stars.

"When he was flown overseas," the Post-Dispatch story related, "he attended services on four different continents four successive Sundays in February and March 1944. His flight took him to West Palm Beach, Fla., the first Sunday, and to Brazil, Liberia and England on following Sabbaths."

Now 39 years old, Daab is married and has two children.

His sister, Mrs. August A. Volkert of Columbia had set a 30-year record of perfect attendance at Sunday school when her record was broken. A brother, Wilbert Daab, had gone to the same Sunday school for 25 years without missing a Sunday, when he was killed in an accident in May 1945.

Two Churches of One Group Celebrate 110th Anniversary

St. Peter's and St. Marcus, Evangelical and Reformed, Sprang From Pioneer German Congregation.

The two oldest of the 53 Evangelical and Reformed congregations in St. Louis, St. Peter's and St. Marcus, are celebrating their 110th anniversary. St. Peter's Church is at St. Louis and Warne avenues, and St. Marcus at Russell boulevard and McNair avenue.

The two congregations sprang from the old German Evangelical Protestant Holy Ghost Church, which was organized in 1834 by devout German immigrants in the old Benton School on Sixth street, between Locust and St. Charles streets. The first church building was dedicated in 1840 at Seventh streets and Clark avenue.

The congregation grew rapidly, and in 1843 it divided into a north side (St. Peter's) and south side (St. Marcus) church. St. Peter's church was first located at Fourteenth and Carr streets, and St. Marcus at Jackson (now Third) street and Soulard street, (now Lafayette avenue.) For about five years the north and south side churches were served by the same pastor.

The Rev. Dr. Elmer H. Hoefer has served St. Peter's Church as its eleventh pastor since 1946. The Rev. Telfair L. Boesch has been pastor of St. Marcus Church since 1949.

The first assistant pastor of St. Peter's was the Rev. George Rauschenbusch, who later became a Baptist leader. His son, Prof. Walter Rauschenbusch, who died in 1918, was widely known as the "father of the Social Gospel."

John W. Mueller, leader of St. Peter's Churchmen's Forum and second vice president of the Evangelical and Reformed Church, will speak on the Rauschenbusches, father and son, at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow. At 10:30 a.m., the Rev. Dr. Hoefer will preach and lead the World Communion service.

Anniversary services were held at St. Peter's on Sunday and Wednesday.

St. Marcus Church will hold anniversary services through Oct. 28. World Communion Sunday will be observed at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow. Anniversary Sunday will be observed on Oct. 18. On Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 24 and 25, St. Marcus will be host to the Missouri Valley Synod Brotherhood.

DR. JOHNSON MAKES TWO AIR TRIPS TO SOUTH IN WEEK

On Monday he was host to 200 members of the Ministerial Alliance at a meeting and luncheon. After the luncheon, the Rev. Dr. Johnson took a plane to Birmingham, Ala., for an address that night. He returned home Tuesday, and Wednesday night presided at a dedication program at Third Church, where the speaker was Brooks Hays, United States Representative of Little Rock, Ark.

Yesterday the Rev. Dr. Johnson flew to Winston-Salem, N.C., wheer today he was the principal speaker at cornerstone laying ceremonies of a new chapel and two other buildings at Wake Forest College. He will return to his home pulpit tomorrow.

A novena for peace in honor of Our Lady of Fatima will be held at St. Francis Xavier (College) Church, Grand and Lindell boulevards, beginning Monday, it was announced this week by the Rev. William S. Bowdern, S.J., pastor.

The nine days' devotions will be conducted by the Rev. Raymond M. Tully, S.J., of the Society of Jesus Provincial House, 4511 West Pine boulevard. Services will be held at 7:30 a.m., 12:30, 5:30 and 8 p.m.

The novena is being held on the anniversary of the reported appearances of the Virgin to the shepherd children of the village of Fatima in Portugal. The closing day, Oct. 13, is the anniversary of the "Miracle of the Sun" in 1917.

ARCHBISHOP TO OPEN ST. LUKE CAMPAIGN

Parish Seeks $300,000 to Pay Debts on School and Convent.

Archbishop Joseph E. Ritter will lead Holy Hour services at 8 p.m. today at St. Luke's Church in Richmond Heights, opening a campaign to raise $300,000 to pay off debts on the parish.

More than 450 men have enlisted for the general solicitation tomorrow. These volunteers and their families will attend the special service at the church tonight.

Children of St. Luke's School have held a novena for the success of the campaign, and three days of special prayers by older parishioners opened on Thursday. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph A. McMahon has been pastor of the church for 33 years.

William J. Giovanni, general campaign chairman, has appointed 75 team captains, with five team members serving under each captain.

"The goal is to provide funds to pay off the debts on our school and convent, and to give us a working budget to maintain the parish 'in the clear,'" Giovanni said.

Baptists Elect St. Louis Pastor.

The Rev. John E. Nance, pastor of Washington Tabernacle Baptist Church, Washington boulevard and Compton avenue, was elected vice president of the midwestern region of the National Baptist Convention, U. S. A., at its recent annual meeting at Miami, Fla. The convention voted to meet in St. Louis in 1954. The national body has a membership of 4,500,000 and is said to be the largest Negro church in the world.

DODGERS 7, YANKEES 2 AFTER 7½ INNINGS

SNIDER AND M'DOUGALD WALLOP HOMERS; 3 DOUBLES BY GILLIAM

By Bob Broeg
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff

BROOKLYN, Oct. 3—Ed (Whitey) Ford, the Yankees' 18-game winner during the regular American League season, lasted only one inning in the fourth game of the world series here this afternoon, a victim of three quick Dodger runs.

Junior Gilliam opened the Brooklyn first with a double, moved to third on an infield out and scored on Jackie Robinson's single. After a wild pitch by the 24-year-old lefthander and an intentional pass to Roy Campanella, Duke Snider doubled two more runs across with a double to right. Tom Gorman took over the Yankee pitching in the second.

Gilliam made another double in the second and his third straight two-bagger in the fourth scored Carl Furillo with Brooklyn's fourth run.

Against Billy Loes, the Dodgers' 23-year-old righthander from suburban Astoria, the Yankees failed to hit until the fourth inning, but in the fifth Billy Martin tripled and Gil McDougald followed with a homer into the left field seats.

Snider also homered in the Dodgers' two-run sixth and Duke drove in his fourth run of the game with a double in the seventh off Art Schallock, fourth New York hurler.

Casey Stengel even named his fifth-game pitcher before today's contest, picking Jim McDonald, former righthander of the Browns, as his hurler for Sunday's contest. However, Manager Charley Dressen of the Dodgers declined to name his next game's starter.

More New Records.

The attendance, announced as 36,775, set a new Ebbets Field record and the net receipts were $214,394.33. The players' pool, which was completed with today's game, set a new record of $608,341.61.

Umpires were Art Gore of the National League at the plate, Bill Grieve of the American at first, Bill Stewart of the National at second, Ed Hurley of the American at third, and the foul line arbiters were Frank Dascoli of the National League in left field and Hank Soar of the American in right field.

Mickey Fans Again.

Opening the game, Mantle, who struck out four straight times yesterday, fanned after failing to bunt. Loes's inning was easy, for Collins flied to Robinson and Bauer fouled to Hodges.

Brooklyn's first began surprisingly as Gilliam lifted a high fly Bauer misjudged down the right field foul line, the ball landing behind him and bouncing into the Brooklyn bullpen for a ground-rule double. Reese's grounder to Collins moved Gilliam to third, and Robinson scored him with a line single to center. Hodges forced Robinson, McDougald to Martin. Hodges took second on a wild pitch. Campanella then was passed intentionally. Snider's high fly hit the right field screen for a double, scoring Hodges and Campella. Furillo fly to Bauer ended the three-run inning.

In the Yankee second, Berra complained on a called third strike. Woodling walked. Martin forced Woodling, Hodges to Reese. Loes was breezing as McDougald forced Martin, Reese to Robinson.

Another Double for Gilliam.

Stengel decided that although the runs off Ford could have been prevented, Whitey had had enough and righthander Tom Gorman pitched against Brooklyn in the second. Cox struck out and Loes was retired, Collins to Gorman, before Gilliam got another fluke double when Rizzuto lost his pop fly in the sun in short left. There was no damage, however, for McDougald threw out Reese.

The Yankees were no problem again in the third as Rizzuto flied to Furillo, Gorman struck out and Mantle, who had tied a series record with his five straight strikeouts, flied deep to Snider.

The Dodgers went out in order for the first time in the third as Robinson grounded to McDougald, Hodges popped to Martin and Campanella fouled to Berra.

The Yankee fourth produced the champs' first hit, a single to right by Berra, but Collins had taken a third strike and Bauer flied deep to Furillo. Woodling grounded to Martin.

The Dodgers crossed up the Yankees to score one in the fourth. After Snider grounded to Martin, Furillo singled to center. Cox flied deep to Woodling, but Loes's single to right sent Furillo to third. Gilliam then hit a 3-0 pitch off the right field screen for his third double, scoring Furillo. Reese popped to Martin.

Seventh Hit for Martin.

The Yankees came to life in the fifth. Martin, first up, delivered his seventh series hit and second triple, a drive to right-center. McDougald's second blow in 14 trips followed, a home run into the left-center field stands. The Dodgers argued that Rizzuto had been struck out on a pitch ruled a foul tip by Umpire Gore. The Scooter then flied deep to Snider. Don Bollweg, batting for Gorman, took a called third strike. Mantle also looked at a third strike.

Ford, who suffered his first series opener in relief Tuesday, was the Yankee pitcher in the last of the fifth. And he worked smoothly, getting Robinson and Hodges on grounders to Rizzuto. Campanella on a roller to McDougald.

In the Yankee sixth, Snider backed to the center field fence for Collins's drive. Cox threw out Bauer, Berra singled to center for his second hit and Gilliam made a good stop of Woodling's grounder to his left.

Snider, leading off the Dodger sixth, set a new world series record for home runs by a National League player—five—with his tremendous first-pitch drive over the right field screen. Furillo was called out on strikes. Cox doubled over third. Gilliam lined to Bauer, Cox scoring and Loes taking second on the throw. Reese grounded to McDougald.

Loes recorded his seventh strike-out at the start of the seventh, claiming Martin as a victim. McDougald flied deep to Snider. Rizzuto singled to left. Irv Noren batted for Sain and popped to Reese.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Vince Martinez, boxing "rookie of the year" in 1952, is moving up fast in the welter ranks on a fifth-round TKO victory over Vinnie D'Andrea, rugged New York youngster.

Martinez, bobby sox idol of Paterson, N.J., gave D'Andrea a sound beating last night at St. Nicholas Arena before a capacity crowd of 3000 which paid $8655. Martinez weighed 149¾, D'Andrea 153½.

Record Breaker Gets a Lift

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

CARL ERSKINE, Dodger pitcher, who set a new world series record by striking out 14 Yankees in the third game, gets a lift from ROY CAMPANELLA (left) and Manager CHARLEY DRESSEN (right). It was Campanella's eighth inning homer that gave Erskine the 3-2 victory.

U.S. Retains Ryder Cup; Mangrum and Snead Beaten

WENTWORTH, England, Oct. 3 (UP)—The United States's professional golf stars fought off a brilliant rally by Britain's players today and won the Ryder Cup for the eighth time, 6½ to 5½ points.

With the score deadlocked at 5-all, Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N.Y., furnished the winning point when he defeated 22-year-old Peter Alliss, the youngest player ever to take part in a Ryder Cup match, 1 up, on the thirty-sixth hole. Alliss, the son of British golfing star Percy Alliss, missed a 2½-foot putt on the final green and a tremendous sigh of disappointment came from the crowd of 18,000.

Under Ryder Cup rules, six points—or half of the 12 available—were all the United States needed to retain the trophy. Turnesa's victory clinched the American victory after the British put on a tremendous rally. Dave Douglas of Wilmington, Del., then gave the Americans their final half-point when he halved his match against Bernard Hunt.

Trailing 3-1 after yesterday's foursomes play, the British started today's eight singles matches needing 5½ of the remaining 8 points to win. And they almost made it by exploding a string of upsets that forced the United States down to almost the last hole for a decision.

Fred Daly cut the United States lead to 3-2 when he whipped Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N.Y., 9 and 7.

Jack Burke of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., made it 4-2 with a 2-and-1 victory over Dai Rees of Wales, but Eric Brown promptly made it 4-3 by upsetting Lloyd Mangrum, the United States captain from Chicago, 2 up.

Harry Weetman then made it 4-all by upsetting Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W.Va., 1 up.

Cary Middlecoff of Memphis again put the United States ahead with a 3 and 1 triumph over Max Faulkner, but Harry Bradshaw again deadlocked it at 5-all with a 3 and 2 victory over Fred Haas of New Orleans. That left it all up to Turnesa and Alliss, and the young Briton cracked under the pressure put on by the veteran American.

ERSKINE BREAKS A SERIES RECORD BY FANNING 14

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

BROOKLYN, Oct. 3—A record-breaking strikeout performance by Carl Erskine and an eighth-inning home run by Roy Campanella off Vic Raschi gave the Brooklyn Dodgers a 3-2 victory over the Yankees in yesterday's third game of the world series before a standing-room-only crowd of 35,270 at Ebbets Field.

Erskine, battered for four first-inning runs in the opener Tuesday at Yankee Stadium, fanned 14 men to better by one the previous high established by Howard Ehmke, a storybook surprise starter, in the 1929 series between the Philadelphia Athletics and Chicago Cubs.

There were physical as well as psychological reasons behind Connie Mack's decision back there 24 years ago to use Ehmke, a fading gaffer, instead of either of his fast-firing strong-armed stars, Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw. Mack felt that by sidearming with changing speeds out of the white-shirted Wrigley Field background, the righthanded Ehmke could bother the righthanded-hitting Chicago sluggers.

Campanella Also Comes Back.

In Erskine's masterpiece there were no such advantages. Not only had the Yankees seen him before and more than once, but he rarely changed speeds, relying early on a blistering fast ball and late on an astonishing overhanded curve. And 11 of the righthander's strikeouts were accomplished against lefthanded hitters, including Joe Collins and Mickey Mantle four times each.

The Hoosier hotshot from Anderson, Ind., allowed only six singles, three of which were on the infield, required just two putouts from his outfield, issued only two walks and hit two batters. St. Louis's own Yogi Berra must have felt like a pincushion because it was he who was plunked both times and, with a hit and a pass, Yogi reached base on four straight occasions. Quite exclusive.

If Erskine proved he could come back, so did Campanella, a two-series batting bust, and also Jackie Robinson, whose hitting had been so poor he was demoted from cleanup to seventh in the Brooklyn batting order.

Campanella broke up the ball game, as mentioned, and Robinson collected three of the nine hits allowed by Raschi, the Springfield (Mass.) rifle who was a standout in defeat. Robinson doubled to set up one run and singled home another.

It was the Yankees, however, who scored first without getting the ball out of the infield in the fifth. Billy Martin delivered the first New York safety, an infield single to Peewee Reese in deep short. On the hit-and-run, Phil Rizzuto's grounder glanced off the glove of Junior Gilliam, charging to cover. And after Raschi sacrificed, Bill Cox brilliantly knocked down Gil McDougald's hot smash that sent Martin across.

In the Dodgers' fifth, Robinson doubled off the right-field screen with one out, teased Raschi into a thoughtless balk with his long lead off second and then scored from third on Cox's slick squeeze bunt.

Brooklyn took the lead in the sixth on Duke Snider's single, a walk to Gil Hodges and Robinson's two-out single, but the Yankees tied it up again in the eighth as Hank Bauer singled, Berra was hit with a pitch and Gene Woodling came through with a two-out single.

Erskine, who had struck out 10 men in the first six innings and then fanned two more in the eighth, might have had to pitch until the cows came home if Campanella hadn't teed off, sore hand and all, in the Brooklyn half.

To the Yankees there at the finish, Erskine must have resembled Walter Johnson, Dazzy Vance and Dizzy Dean in their prime. In the ninth he fanned pinch-hitter Don Bollweg to tie Ehmke's record and then broke it by throwing three pitches past dangerous old Johnny Mize, another pinch-batter.

Injury in Football Game Fatal to Boston U. Player

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Oct. 3 (UP)—John Pappas, 20-year-old senior guard on the Boston University football team, died today of injuries suffered in last night's game against Syracuse University.

He was believed to have died from a head injury but doctors were awaiting the results of a post-mortem examination to definitely decide the cause of death. The game ended in a 14-14 tie.

Pappas was considered Boston University's top candidate for New England and sectional honors. He was a top-notch player on both offense and defense.

Pappas also was a member of the university track team. He entered the Boston school after winning all-scholastic football honors in his home town, Worcester, Mass.

No Other Ball Player Can Make Statement.

NEW YORK, Oct. 3.

CARL DANIEL ERSKINE of Anderson, Indiana, always was a pretty slick young man. He probably is the only ballplayer ever to receive two bonuses for signing baseball contracts with the same ball club and his record in that respect probably will stand forever, because he got two bonuses from Branch Rickey and, no doubt about it, no other ballplayer can make that statement.

Erskine, who made the "five-pennant" Yankees look like blind men swatting at wasps at Ebbets Field yesterday afternoon, first signed a Brooklyn contract and received a $3500 bonus while he was in the Navy in 1946. Happy Chandler was baseball commissioner at the time and he decided that the Navy was out of bounds for baseball scouts and declared Erskine a free agent. However, Happy wasn't real mad at Rickey at that time and so he didn't rule that Erskine was barred from re-negotiating with the Dodgers later, which would have been the usual ruling on a free agent illegally signed.

Apparently Erskine liked the idea of being a Dodger and Rickey liked the idea of having Erskine, so the Dodgers shelled out another bonus. This time for $5000 and Erskine became a Dodger again.

Never Saw Better Curve Ball, Campanella Says.

ROY CAMPANELLA, capable Dodger catcher who has looked through his mask at many a pitched ball, said in the clubhouse after the game, in which Carl Daniel set a new world series record by striking out 14 Yankees, that he had never seen a better curve ball than the one Erskine showed. "It was his fast ball in the early innings," Campanella said. In the fifth inning the Yankees started connecting with more authority. Campanella said Erskine changed his strategy after that and through the rest of the game the Yankees were swinging with great futility at a curve ball.

It was a masterful performance. Erskine struck out Joe Collins and Mickey Mantle, two left-handed hitters, four times each. Eleven of the 14 strikeouts were gained against left-handed hitters, unusual because left-handed batters are supposed to be at their best against right-handers.

Nobody was very good against Erskine. Three of the six hits off his delivery were handled by infielders. There wasn't anything that looked like an extra base hit and the hardest hit off his delivery was a long fly by Billy Martin that Carl Furillo caught in the right-center field corner in the sixth inning.

Erskine had six strikeouts after three innings and needed one to tie and one to break Howard Ehmke's world series record of 13, made in 1929 against the Cubs, as the Yankees went to bat in the ninth. Erskine wasted no time tying and breaking. Don Bollweg batted for Phil Rizzuto and was No. 13 for the 165-pound right-hander. Johnny Mize, the big cat, then batted for Vic Raschi and went down quickly to end the last Yankee hope that the game might be pulled out of the fire.

Here's How Erskine Set His Record

Brooklyn, Oct. 3 (AP)—Here's an inning-by-inning breakdown of Carl Erskine's series record of 14 strikeouts:

First—McDougald and Collins, both swinging.
Second—Mantle and Rizzuto, both called.
Third—Raschi, called, and Collins, swinging.
Fourth—Mantle, swinging.
Fifth—Collins, called.
Sixth—Mantle and Woodling, both swinging.
Seventh—None.
Eighth—Collins and Mantle, both swinging.
Ninth — Bollweg and Mize, both swinging.

Now Yanks Know How Cards Felt All Year.

THE Yankees know now how the Cardinals felt all summer. The Redbirds lost six games to Erskine during the season and 11 of Eddie Stanky's men struck out in one of the contests.

Left-handed batters were so feeble against the young man—he'll be 27 in December—that it seemed from a press box position right behind the plate that Erskine's overhand curve was breaking away from the plate. But Campanella said no, it wasn't any screwball, just a fast-breaking curve, a fast ball that was alive, and an occasional slider.

And about that slider. Frankie Frisch can throw away his description of that pitch. Onkie Frank always called a slider a nickel curve. This was no five-cent wrinkle that Carl Daniel Erskine was throwing. It looked like a million dollars to the Dodgers.

Judge Orders Browns Produce Books in Suit

The Browns may not live here any more but the ball club and its former owner have a date in court next Wednesday.

Circuit Judge William B. Flynn yesterday ordered attorneys for Bill Veeck and the Browns to have the club's records in court then. They had asked the court not to issue that order because so many records are involved. One attorney suggested it would cost less to move the court to the Browns' office.

The development came in a suit filed by a group of minority stockholders seeking an injunction against transfer of the club from St. Louis and a financial accounting by Veeck.

The suit was filed last spring, a few hours before the American League turned down an attempt by Veeck to move to Baltimore. Last Tuesday the league approved transfer of the Browns to Baltimore and sale of Veeck's stock to Baltimore interests.

In Baltimore last night, the Baltimore Sun said Veeck had resigned from the club. The Sun said the resignation was accepted by Clarence W. Miles, head of the group which bought the Browns, after a conference with Veeck in New York.

Southern California Given Scare by Indiana Team

Hoosiers Beaten in Last Half

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (UP)—Ignoring the odds that generally favor home teams, two invading football forces walked off with impressive victories last night in launching a weekend of interesting inter-sectional college games.

Fordham, attempting to regain its former high estate among the Eastern powers, opened its 1953 season by whipping the University of Detroit, 21 to 7, in the Motor City and Baylor outlasted Miami, 21 to 13, in the Orange Bowl.

Southern California, favored by 21 points, got a tough fight from Indiana before finally emerging as the 27-14 winner before 49,578 fans at Los Angeles. The Hoosiers trailed only by six points late in the final period when Southern California's George Bozanic raced back a pass interception 33 yards to sink the Big Ten team.

Popson in Limelight.

Elsewhere, fullback John Popson scored three touchdowns in leading Furman to a 27-0 victory over The Citadel; Temple rolled over Bowling Green, 27-0, and Syracuse rallied in the second half to tie Boston University, 14-14.

Roger Franz and Vinnie Drake, Fordham's alternating quarterbacks, teamed up in sending Detroit down to its first defeat in three games. Franz engineered two touchdown drives for the Rams, while Drake passed to Andy Nacrelli for the other score.

A rain-drenched crowd of 28,000 watched Baylor open a 14-0 lead over Miami in the first half and then fight off the Hurricane's late bid for victory. Quarterback Cotton Davidson tallied one Baylor touchdown, passed for another and helped set up the third.

Just as Southern California featured a former line backer, so the Hoosiers were sparked by a punter, Florian Helinski, who passed, kicked and ran brilliantly to keep Indiana in the game almost all the way.

Indiana's speedy backs went to work fast at the start of the game, marching 60 yards on 13 plays, entirely on the ground, with Quarterback Helinski sneaking over from the one to give the Hoosiers a brief lead. Southern California then took the ball from the kick-off and also moved 60 yards, but in 10 plays. The Trojans scored on a 15-yard pass from Bozanic to End Ron Miller.

Fumble Hurts Hoosiers.

Indiana gave Southern California a touchdown in three minutes of the third period. On the second play after the kick-off, Helinski lateraled to Jerry Ellis who fumbled and Ed Fouch recovered on the 26. Following a 16-yard pass from Bozanic to Halfback Linden Crow, Tailback Aramis Dandoy broke loose for six yards to score.

The Trojans then marched 74 yards on 10 plays, with Bozanic's passing and running featuring the drive. They scored on Fullback Leon Sellers's nine-yard pass to End Al Baldock.

Helinski climaxed a 71-yard fourth period drive with a 32-yard pass play to End Nate Borden who caught the ball on the 20 and raced over untouched.

Helinski suffered a slight injury and sub quarterback Don Dominic's pass deep in Indiana territory was picked off by Bozanic on defense and he raced to the touchdown that clinched the contest.

Big Ten Teams Favored.

Three games involving rivals from the Pacific Coast Conference and the Big Ten headline today's program. The Midwest representatives were favored in all three. Illinois was a 7½-point choice over Stanford, Ohio State was a touchdown favorite over California in their nationally-televised scrap at Berkeley, Calif., and Iowa was a seven-point pick over Washington State.

Michigan State, rated second behind Notre Dame by the United Press Board of Coaches this week, was an eight-point choice to rack up its twenty-sixth straight victory against Minnesota at Minneapolis. However, anything could happen in this one. The Spartans expected only limited service from Quarterback Tom Yewcic, while Minnesota signal-caller Don Swanson also was ailing.

Notre Dame, which survived "the hottest football weather" in Coach Frank Leahy's memory last week in outlasting Oklahoma, expects to jump from the frying pan into the fire for its game with Purdue. The weatherman predicted a temperature in the 90s at their Lafayette, Ind., battle scene.

Missouri Faces Colorado.

Things should also be hot at Philadelphia, where Pennsylvania will entertain Penn State in the East's big game. George Munger, who retires as Penn State coach this year, never has directed his boys to victory over State. So the Quakers will be out to "win this one for George."

Missouri, which last week upset Purdue, opens its Big Seven campaign in a game with Colorado at Boulder. The Tigers will be out to end a 12-game home winning streak owned by the Buffaloes.

Other major eastern games included Oklahoma - Pittsburgh, Holy Cross-Colgate, Navy-Dartmouth, Yale-Brown, Princeton-Columbia and Cornell-Rice.

The southland's best game will find Tennessee meeting Duke, with the Vols seeking revenge for last year's setback by the Blue Devils. Maryland was a heavy favorite over Clemson, while other area games were Mississippi - Auburn, Florida-Kentucky, Southern Methodist-Georgia Tech, Alabama-Vanderbilt, South Carolina-Virginia, Louisiana State-Boston College and Villanova-Wake Forest.

Poole's Plunge Proves Enough For Maplewood

By John J. Archibald

Maplewood rebounded from a triple-disaster third quarter to grind out a touchdown and extra point in the closing minutes of the game and defeat University City, 13 to 12, in the opener of Suburban League Big Six play on the Maplewood field last night. The victory was Maplewood's third without a defeat this season.

On the first play after the second-half kickoff, Maplewood worked a pass play that was good for 80 yards and an apparent touchdown, but the play was called back because of an offensive holding penalty, and Coach Bud Wallach's Leafs were put back on their own five-yard line. The aerial had gone from Art Brewer to Jeff Jost near the 30, and Jost sped through the U. City defenders to the end zone.

U. City went to town after that break and quickly equalled the touchdown that Maplewood had scored in the second quarter. Marshall Katzman bolted 27 yards through the line, reaching the Maplewood five before being brought down. Two plays later, Bob Jordan scored on a run around right end. The kick was not good, leaving the score 6-6.

Maplewood was unable to move after taking the kick to its 35 and punted out on U. City's 14. Coach Stub Muhl's Indians then unleashed an 86-yard ground drive. Nelson Morose and Katzman got away for a series of big gains, and Jordan made the final 10 on a sprint around left end.

U. City was on the march again in the fourth quarter, but a fumble was recovered by Maplewood on the Leafs' 41, and with time growing short, Maplewood drove forward. Brewer, Leon Poole, and George Sweet were the chief gainers, with a 10-yard pass from Sweet to Ralph Lang giving the Leafs a first down on the 10. Brewer made the touchdown on a plunge, tying the score at 12-12. The all-important extra point was scored by Poole, who slammed through the U. City line.

Sweet had set up the first Maplewood touchdown by running a U. City punt back about 25 yards to the Indians' 21. A 15-yard penalty aided the Leafs' drive, and Poole scored from the three.

Bears Play Sewanee Today, Hope to Avenge 1952 Loss

By Robert Morrison

Surprised by the toughness of their foe the previous week, Washington University's Bears and Coach Carl Snavely will try to avoid the same pitfall in their game this afternoon with the University of the South from Sewanee, Tenn.

The Bears, favored by a touchdown or two, will be out to avenge a 22-12 defeat handed them last year.

New Coach Snavely should find something familiar about Sewanee. Its balanced-line single wingback offense is taken from the Bob Neyland style and the veteran Snavely frequently had met Neyland's Tennessee teams in the past.

But the Gray Fox didn't know much about the Sewanee team itself, he said, and it was obvious he hoped he wouldn't be surprised as he was a week ago.

In the Bears' opener with Missouri Mines Snavely and his Washington men were trailing a well-coached Miner team by a point, 7 to 6, at the half before pulling the game out of the fire in the second half.

Sewanee, coached by veteran Bill White, has back most of its backfield and end personnel that accounted for a majority of the Tigers' points in a six-victory, two-defeat season a year ago.

Gene Sorrell, who averaged 7.1 yards per carry last year, is Sewanee's top tailback, and another likely standout is expected to be Bill Doswell, fullback transfer from Tulane, who is expected to add power to the usually fast but light-hitting Sewanee offense.

At wingback for Sewanee will be veteran Bill Millar, speed merchant who specializes in the tricky reverses, and another veteran is blocking back Bill McCutcheon.

But the Bears, expected to show improved line play and continued development in a potentially powerful backfield, probably will be more than the Sewanee defense can handle.

McKinley Wins, East St. Louis Blanks Soldan

By Harold Tuthill

McKinley flashed a good feat De Andreis, 20-0, while Soldan-Blewett went to East St. Louis and absorbed a 40-0 loss at the hands of Wirt Downing's Flyers who now have won three straight football games this season and 13 in a row over two years.

Coach Julius Blanke has revamped the Goldbug lineup which lost, 13-0, to C.B.C. in the first game and now the City co-champions have gained successive triumphs over Alton and De Andreis, considered top-flight competition.

De Andreis, missing two regulars, Halfback Harold Robberson and Tackle John Jablonski, suffered its second setback in three starts. Robberson has been out with a brain concussion received in the Washington Tech game, while Jablonski has a virus infection which may keep him out of action for a week or more.

The 'Bugs rolled to a first quarter touchdown, going 38 yards with Jerry Moore going over and big Frank Czapla kicking the extra point. McKinley increased its lead with a second quarter advance of 83 yards and this time Jim Earls scored to make it 13-0 at halftime.

After a scoreless third period, the Bugs rolled 77 yards and added their final tally on a 12-yard pass from Moore to Jerry Pregon. Czapla again converted.

Eddie Donohue's D-A Wildcats reached the McKinley 16 in the second quarter for their deepest penetration.

East St. Louis, which scored in every quarter, jumped off to a 20-0 lead at the end of the first period and then coasted, picking up single TDs in the remaining three periods.

Interesting Problem

Fisherman Takes His Case to Court

By Leonard Hall

AN interesting problem has arisen in the field of Ozark recreation, in the case of Elder vs. Delcour, which will be argued in this month's session of the Springfield Court of Appeals. The point at issue, brought down to its simplest terms, is this: what constitutes a navigable stream in Missouri? And upon the answer depends the future of "float fishing," grandest of Ozark sports. The reason for this is that a stream defined as navigable is in effect a public highway and subject to public use, even though the adjoining landowner may actually claim title to the stream-bed itself. Anyone may travel such a stream by canoe or other boat and beach on its banks to camp or make repairs; while the only restriction on fishing is that one have a license and abide by the regulations. If the stream is non-navigable, on the other hand, the landowner's rights not only extend to the stream bed; he has complete control of who may have access to it for any purpose whatsoever, including fishing.

The case of Elder vs. Delcour came about in this way: J. M. Delcour owns a farm in Dent county through which flows the Meramec river in its upper reaches. This is generally admitted to be good fishing water and when the stream is at normal stage it can be floated by canoe or john-boat without much difficulty. As with all Ozark streams, however, there are occasional log-jams and riffles where short portages are necessary. On a day in 1952, George Elder and his wife drove with their canoe to a point upstream from the Delcour farm with the purpose of floating to Cook Station, some miles downstream, and fishing and eating lunch along the way. When they came to the farm boundary, there was a fence across the stream and Delcour was on hand to warn that they were trespassing and that he would take action if they proceeded. But Elder worked the canoe past the fence.

The question which arises, and which will serve as reference in future cases of similar alleged trespass, is whether the Meramec at this point is small enough to be considered non-navigable and therefore in its entirety the property of the landowner who can thus control trespass; or whether it is navigable because it can be floated in a canoe and is therefore public water.

THE CASE IS ACTUALLY what is known as a friendly suit, with an agreement by both parties that it will be carried to the highest court in Missouri. Briefs have been filed by both sides in the Springfield Court of Appeals. Points made by the Delcour attorneys are that the Meramec at the point in question is not navigable and therefore not open to unrestricted use and passage; and that being a non-navigable stream, the landowner likewise owns the streambed, the waters are private, and the owner has the exclusive right to fish therein. These contentions are based upon early interpretations in Missouri that navigability consists in "the carrying on of commerce which is useful and has practical utility to the public, such as trade or agriculture, rather than for mere pleasure craft. The mere fact that waters have been or can be used by small boats does not in itself render them navigable." Under this interpretation it will be seen that the upper Current river, practically all of Jacks Fork and a good part of such streams as Gasconade, Big and Little Piney, upper White river, the James, Bryants Creek, Huzzah and Courtois, and most other Ozark bass streams, would be classed as non-navigable.

★ ★ ★

ATTORNEYS FOR ELDER argue for a broader interpretation of the word "navigable." They point out that a stream which is navigable in fact is navigable in law; that in considering an individual stream, thought must be given to the particular questions involved. They state that it has long been held in Missouri that the public has a right of passage on all fresh water streams which are by nature susceptible of general use. And from this they conclude that if an individual has the right to be on a stream, he also has the right to take fish from it by legal means. The matter becomes one of setting a proper and specific definition on the word "navigable" since there is no contention that the landowner may not control access and fishing on purely private waters.

★ ★ ★

ACTUALLY, the determination of what constitutes navigability, from the standpoint of recreational use, should not be difficult. If a stream is small enough so that the landowner normally maintains fences across it in all weather, it will almost never carry enough water to float a loaded canoe. But if the stream is large enough so that a loaded skiff or canoe can negotiate it readily, without more than an occasional short portage over or around an obstruction, it is almost never economical or practical to maintain permanent fences across it. This might well be the basis for allowing public access. And a half-dozen competent conservation experts could determine in a few weeks time, during a period of normal stream flow, the point at which every stream in the state became "non-navigable." But to end all floating and stream fishing by the public because the stream cannot be used by a barge-line or excursion steamer, as might happen under the present reading of the law, would, it seems to me, be most unreasonable.

OPERA STAR IN NIGHT CLUB SETTING

Helen Traubel, former Metropolitan Opera star, settles down to new role of night club singer as she opens engagement at the Statler Hotel in Washington last night. The St. Louis-born singer, who spurned a "Met" contract last week after criticism of her cabaret appearances, sang popular songs, including "St. Louis Blues," last night. She had asserted she felt closer to the people in front of a night club audience than on the opera stage. —United Press Telephoto.

B-25 CRASHES ON MOUNTAIN; 5 KILLED

Crumpled wreckage of an Air Force B-25 which crashed during a heavy fog on Pine Mountain near Columbus, Ga., killing five of the six men aboard. The sole survivor was a sailor, 19-year-old Richard Schmidt, Rumson, N.J., who had hitchhiked a ride on the return flight to Andrews Air Force Base, Md., from Eglin Field, Fla. Two farmers who heard the crash Thursday night climbed to the spot from their mountainside homes and found Schmidt shouting for help as he lay amid scattered wreckage. The area in which plane fell is on Dowdell's Knob, site of a proposed $40,000,000 Hall of History to mark a scenic point often visited by the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt. —United Press Telephoto.

LINCOLN STATUE REFINISHED

Statue of Abraham Lincoln on State Capitol grounds at Springfield, Ill., being inspected by officials after refinishing job gave it shiny new look that has brought some protests. Electric wire brush was used to remove patina given bronze statue by the elements and coat of varnish applied to preserve the new gleam. PIG IN A BOTTLE

This pig, which has spent 14 of its 18 days in a five-gallon jug and has doubled its weight to 8 pounds, is scheduled for exhibition by its owner, Mrs. George McCroskey, Geyer Springs, Ark., at the Arkansas Livestock Show next week. Mrs. McCroskey, whose 11-month-old grandson Jerry feeds the pig, says she put it in the bottle for a test, with approval of the Pulaski County Humane Society. —United Press Telephoto.

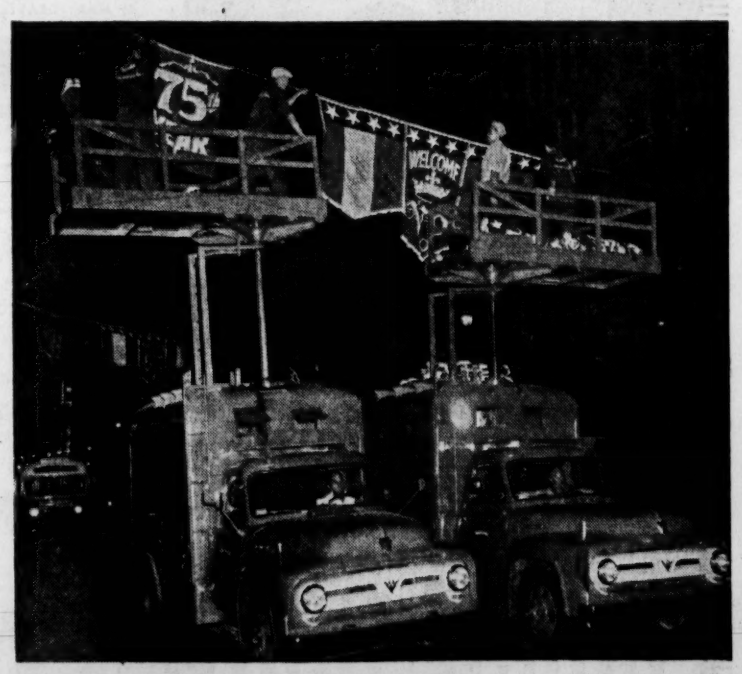
MEDAL FOR KOREA VETERAN

Allen J. Niman, 5754 Ridge avenue, former Army corporal awarded the Bronze Star medal for "heroic achievement" in battle in Korea, is congratulated by Col. William D. Paschall, chief of the Missouri Military District, after ceremony at district headquarters, Twelfth and Spruce streets. Niman, a graduate of Soldan High School who entered the Army in 1951, was honored for maintaining his observation post under fire near Sokchang-ri, despite a direct enemy hit on the bunker, to direct Allied artillery fire on Red positions. —By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.



PREPARING V.P. WELCOME

Taking advantage of the nighttime traffic lull, workmen using St. Louis Public Service Co. trouble trucks put up street decorations heralding the return of the Veiled Prophet of Khorassan, who will celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of his first visit to the city Tuesday and Wednesday nights. On Tuesday the royal visitor will crown his Queen of Love and Beauty in ceremonies at Kiel Auditorium Convention Hall and on Wednesday he will lead his annual street parade. Crew is at work at Thirteenth street and Washington avenue. —By a Post-Dispatch Photographer.

FIVE HORSES BALK IN JUMPING EVENT

One Rider Spilled — Cool Customer Easy Victor in Finale.

Five fine jumping horses balked at the difficult "Liverpool jump" in the final event of last night's program at the St. Louis National Horse Show, one throwing its rider for a spill.

Most of the jumpers eventually got over the six-foot-broad hurdle, which was a steeplechase barrier including brush, a ditch and a rail. The event, modified Olympic stadium jumping, was won by Cool Customer, ridden by Robert Egan for Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baskowitz, which seemed to take the intricate series of hurdles with consummate ease, though two-and-a-half faults were counted for its course. Other horses piled up large totals of faults.

Miss Marion Mitchell of Overland Park, Kan., was thrown when her horse, Sky Way, failed to jump the hurdle. She quickly rose to her feet and later rode her other entry, Safeway, over the course. M. O. Buder of Clayton was thrown by his horse, Step Dance, on another hurdle in the event.

Mrs. Loula Long Combs of Lee's Summit, Mo., in her fifty-second season as an exhibitor, won her third and fourth blue ribbons last night as driver of horses from her stable in the lady's pair of harness horses and lady's single harness pony events.

Matinees today and tomorrow and evening performances both days at 7:30 o'clock will end the show at the Arena. All proceeds will go to Edgewood Children's Center, Webster Groves.

Last night's results follow:

LUTHERAN COUNCIL RAPS NEW REFUGEE RELIEF ACT

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (UP)—The National Lutheran Council said yesterday "high barriers" in the Refugee Relief Act passed by the last Congress make it impossible for the group to continue its immigration program.

The council, representing 4,000,000 Lutherans in the United States, said that unless the barriers are "removed or lowered" it will not be able to "share in an effective partnership in assisting deserving people to enter our country's doors."

A council spokesman said the organization has helped in bringing about 40,000 refugees to the United States under the displaced persons program.

PROPOSES MONETARY TALKS WITHOUT REDS

Representative Wolcott Suggests Return to Gold Standard, Stabilization.

A proposal for a world monetary conference, without Russia, to seek a return to the gold standard and currency stabilization was advanced here yesterday by United States Representative Jesse P. Wolcott (Rep.), Michigan, chairman of the House Banking Committee.

Wolcott, addressing the National Consumer Finance Association, in convention at Hotel Jefferson, said a world conference would provide a safe way for returning to the gold standard without unbalancing American and international economy.

"Russia does not belong at such a conference unless she will honestly tell us what her gold position and gold potential are," he told the delegates. Russia also would insist on so many concessions it would "hamstring the meetings," he said.

Wolcott, a member of the United States mission to Moscow after World War II, declared: "Russia looks economically strong, but this is a false front."

The speaker criticised the financial policy of the last Democratic administration, saying: "Under Eisenhower, the Government has repudiated inflation as a Government policy and has substituted for it a policy of current stabilization. It is and must be long range.

"Any drastic measures, such as the immediate return to the gold standard, might cause the pendulum to swing too rapidly to the other extreme, causing serious economic dislocations which could send the economy of the country into a tail-spin."

The convention is to end today with election of officers.

GEORGE CREEL DIES, EX-AID TO ROOSEVELT

Former Newspaper Man Headed U.S. Censorship in World War I.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 3 (AP)—George Creel, former newspaper editor, Democratic party consultant, and a speechwriter for the late President Franklin D. Roosevelt, died at St. Francis Hospital last night. He underwent surgery for a liver ailment Tuesday. He was 77 years old.

Onetime editor of the Kansas City Independent, the Denver Post and the Rocky Mountain News, he was an influential figure in Democratic party policies from World War I, when he headed censorship for President Wilson, until the end of World War II.

As chief censor in World War I, he operated on the basis that all news except that small portion which would actively aid the enemy should be immediately published. He was called "Uncle Sam's press agent" for his leadership in patriotic drives.

After the Wilson administration, he worked as a political writer and editor for national magazines. He was called back into the Government by President Roosevelt and held several federal posts during the 1930s. He was often at odds with his associates and late in the Roosevelt administration, he began pulling away from the Democratic party. Along with many other Democrats, he supported Earl Warren, now appointed Chief Justice of the United States, when Warren first ran for California governor in 1942.

Later he made the breakcomplete, supporting Republican Vice President Nixon in his successful bid for the United States Senate in 1948. Last election, he headed a "Democrats for Nixon" group which helped sponsor the Vice President's candidacy in California.

Despite his close association with politics, his only personal try for office was unsuccessful. He ran for governor of California as a Democrat in 1934 and was defeated.

A prolific writer, he was the author of several books. Most widely-known was "A Rebel at Large," dealing with his experiences inside the New Deal as a confidant of President Roosevelt. Most recent was "Russian's Race for Asia" in 1949.

Creel's first wife was Blanche Bates, celebrated actress whom he married in 1912. She died in 1941. Two years later he married Mrs. Alice May Rosseter, widow of a San Francisco shipping executive. She died in 1948.

Creel was born near Lexington, Mo., and educated in the public schools of Lafayette county. At the age of 18 he was a reporter on the Kansas City World. After a quarrel with his city editor, he rode a cattle train to New York and made a living selling jokes to magazines. He soon returned to Kansas City and started a paper. Ten years later he went to Colorado.

Gov. Donnelly also named John R. Smiley of Kansas City, Dr. H. W. Carle Jr. of St. Joseph and Dr. Arthur D. Markel of Poplar Bluff to the board and reappointed L. O. Wallis of Springfield and Mrs. Paul Palmer of Ethlyn.

HEADS TENNESSEANS HERE

Martha Carr's OPINION

REG U S PAT OFF

Dear Martha:

I AM 20 and have been married three years. But my husband and I didn't get along and I got my divorce last month. I have another fellow now and care for him very much. He wants me to marry him but I'm not ready to marry again yet. I want to wait a few years because I was so young when I married the first time. I want someone who's going to be a nice husband and a nice home. I didn't finish high school so I can't get any kind of a job. Please help me. I am so confused.

M.J.

You were unhappily married the first time. Why rush into it again when you aren't sure that you would be doing the right thing? I would like to suggest that instead of marrying right away you talk to the Adult Education Council, 1125 Chemical building, about the possibility of more training that will enable you to support yourself. Then you can decide whether you want to marry.

Dear Martha:

I AM 18 AND A SENIOR in high school. This letter is for all the teen-age boys who read your column. It is a pretty low trick for a guy to play on any girl, after he takes her out, gives her a line about "You're the only girl for me," then gets the girl to fall head over heels in love with him. Then he pulls the disappearing act. This has happened not only to me but to a few of my girl friends. A guy goes with a girl for almost a year and when he gets tired of her, he looks for someone different. He gives her a big thrill then his first girl friend just pulls the chain and he comes running back again. The purpose of this letter is to let you boys know that we girls have feelings and if you're tired of the girl you're going with, just don't fall off the end of the earth. Let the girl know what's coming off. I think more of a boy that is honest and says if he is dating someone else. It's better to hear it from the boy than from so-called friends.

JANET.

It takes a lot more courage to stand up and face an awkward situation than to run away from it, but it's always a temptation to take the easy way out, no matter how much it hurts another person. I wish there were a happy solution to such situations. There isn't. It's natural for teenagers to focus their attention and affections first on one person, then another, because they really aren't ready to settle down. And so I'm afraid the only way for a girl to keep from being hurt is to try to be a little more casual and not let herself become so devoted to one person that she will be terribly unhappy if and when he leaves her flat. She can certainly refuse to swallow an obvious line. I hope some of the boys who have been guilty will read your letter—and some of the girls who have been equally guilty of fickleness. Both boys and girls can be to blame—and both can be easily hurt.

IN ANSWER TO Bette: Don't go against your parents' wishes in this matter. Perhaps they do seem old-fashioned and strict to you but honestly they are only doing what is best for you.

Inactive Member

By Christopher Billopp

AN inactive member is one who receives the notice of a meeting, but it is for an afternoon when he would prefer to be playing golf. So he returns the reply postcard with the information that he will not be present.

The notice of the next meeting finds him having to make a choice between the meeting and game of contract bridge. He settles the matter in favor of the contract bridge.

On the occasion of the notice of the third meeting he has no conflicting plans. But he is reminded that the meetings drag on and that everybody talks too much and there is no way of stopping them. Besides, there is a good television program that he would miss if he were to attend.

And, after all, probably no important matters are coming up that would call for his judgment. Very likely the meeting will deal only with minor items which anybody can handle. He concludes no harm will be done if he stays at home.

He misses other meetings because he got mixed up on the dates, or visitors from out of town turned up unexpectedly, or his wife invited friends into dinner before she realized that he had a meeting scheduled, or he had a headache, bad back or cold.

So it turns out that weeks and months go by without his having attended a meeting. However, he is sure his interest is no less than it always has been.

At last there comes the notice of a meeting which states that a resolution has been adopted that a member failing to attend at least an occasional meeting shall be dropped.

That, he declares, is the work of malicious people. It shocks and pains him to think that after his long years of continued interest he should be treated so rudely as that.

Social Problems

By Emily Post

A WIFE tells me: "My husband and I live in a three-family house with a small stone veranda. We have two lawn chairs and in the evening after dinner my husband and I generally go out on the veranda and relax. No sooner are we seated when one of the other couples living in the house come out, too. They do not have lawn chairs and sit on the veranda steps. My husband gets up as soon as he sees them coming out and gives up his nice comfortable chair to the wife and spends the rest of the evening sitting on the hard veranda steps. They seem to take this for granted and it annoys me a great deal. I feel that it is not necessary for my husband to relinquish his chair. We bought these so that we may sit comfortably and I don't see why he shouldn't be able to enjoy his chair. My husband thinks it would be very rude of him to remain sitting.

Answer: It might be a solution for you to have two inexpensive folding chairs that you can offer them.

DEAR MRS. POST: I have just recently divorced my husband and have gone back home to live with my parents. I would like to notify my many friends and acquaintances of my change of address. Will you please tell me how this can be done?

Answer: Have ordinary visiting cards made with your name alone and your parents' address and mail them.

Designing Woman

Carpets That Please the Eye

By Elizabeth Hillyer

CARPET is much too conspicuous an item on any budget for its practical qualities to be taken lightly.

But one thing is sure. How well the carpet or rug is liked and how much enjoyment there is in living with it is definitely a big part of its value. It can't be the most for the money, no matter how rugged it is or what a bargain, if it's ugly, inappropriate or tiresome. It is possible to get your money's worth only if one of the prime good qualities is the way it pleases the eye.

* * *

THIS MAKES IT EASY to choose new carpet now because there never were so many good looking carpets with so many sterling qualities of long wear and easy care.

So many kinds of patterns are in style it's no trick to find one with that's-for-me appeal and perfect suitability to the room. Along with new tweeds, mixtures, geometrics and abstract motifs there are Victorian florals, Early American block designs, traditional scrolls, leafy tone-on-tone patterns, plain colors in interesting weaves.

Piles are cut, uncut or both, twisted or untwisted and in one or several levels.

Wool, cotton, carpet rayon and other synthetics are shown, and often two yarns are combined.

Colors are wonderful for all of them, and widely varied, and today's dyes are so good there's no problem of fading. It never was so easy to find a really smart carpet that could take family traffic—a number of the newest favorite patterns are mixtures that make the effects of soil and wear difficult to see.

* * *

THE NEW CARPETS sketched show a few of the new trends. There's a new look to textures that have almost an abstract effect, like the pattern called Strata, sketched at lower left.

The pine bough pattern shows how tweedy carpets sometimes take more definite designs, the provincial tweed is good example of new mixtures, and the Staffordshire dogs and cats express a new flare for novelty.

Scatter rugs of a new elegance are news. Some feature unusual abstract designs—the one sketched is a thick woven cotton in Harlequin design.

* * *

CLOSE-UP EXAMINATION of the carpet you like best helps guide a good choice of quality. Judge three things, density of pile, resilience and weight. The pile should be close together and should spring back after being pressed down. Press your fingers into the pile to feel its depth and thickness, and remove them to see how quickly the tufts spring back. Lift up one end of a rug—a good quality will be quite heavy.

Some carpets can't be judged in exactly this way, however. Twist carpeting doesn't have a deep pile and a tightly looped pile surface can't respond to a test for resilience.

How It Started

By Jean Newton

TO "PULL OUT."

"WE pulled out for the summit again," Mark Twain wrote in "A Tramp Aboard," giving a touch of color to the event.

Strictly speaking, he might as well have said "We started out." There is no hint here of the "special meaning" for which our correspondent asks, behind these words, nor have we succeeded in finding any.

"Pull out," as an allusion to leave-taking or departure, has been in colloquial American speech for a century, and American authors have availed themselves of it for the color of rough-and-ready expression.

Nevertheless, we cannot, with certainty, claim that it is of American origin, that "pull out" for "go away" did not serve somewhere across the water before 1855, the date of its earliest appearance in print on this side of the water. This orcurs in "The Forayers," or "The Raid of the Dog Days," by a certain W. G. Sims,, who wrote: "Two or three of you must scout day and night, till you find the coast is clear—then put in and pull out."

My Day

Visit to Warm Springs

By Eleanor Roosevelt

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.

WHEN we drove up before Georgia Hall in Warm Springs last Wednesday afternoon I found all the patients had been gathered and were waiting to greet me and they were hoping that I would say a few words to them. This I did to the best of my ability, and then we went to see the new building with Henry Toombs. It will house the auditorium where plays can be given and where wheelchairs can roll right in and find their place below the seats. Wheelchairs can also roll right on to the stage so that when patients give their Thanksgiving day show those in wheelchairs will have no difficulty at all in picking up their cue.

Mrs. Roosevelt

There is a very unique kind of decoration at the entrance of this building. It has never been used, to my knowledge at least, before in this country. It is sculpture in brick and on one side there is a figure of Helen Keller and on the other one of my husband.

* * *

UNDERNEATH the theater there will be some practice apartments with all the gadgets that could be used by a patient who wanted to run her own house but had to do it from a wheelchair. There will be a kitchen, a bedroom and living room, and, before a girl patient leaves, she will have learned how to work in and care for each of these rooms.

Later I walked over to look at the pool which has now been built on the campus. In the old days all the patients had to be transported by bus to a pool below the hill which had been given by Edsel Ford.

About half of this old pool was enclosed with glass, and here there were exercise tables and patients took their regular daily exercises, in this part of the pool. But when they were through with work, they could swim through to the open-air pool and here often visitors were allowed to bathe with the patients. There were wonderful water polo games and all kinds of stunts, and I think psychologically that open-air pool had a good effect because, for a little while, the cripple could be on a par with those who had no physical handicaps.

* * *

I BELIEVE that the new campus pool which just permits exercises, even though I recognize the advantage of doing away with bus transportation and the danger of catching cold, from my point of view has lost something which had great therapeutic value, not so much for the body as for the soul.

I was told that Warm Springs has had such an influx of people who were very badly hit in both arms and legs that therefore this new pool was all that they could possibly use. But for the other patients I still regret the loss of the old pool. Above all, when I went below the hill and saw that now part of the old pool was being used for staff and visitors, but the land has been filled in and the original springs which were open to the public are no longer there for the public's use, I felt disappointed.

I remember how my husband loved to tell about these springs having been used since the days of the Indians and how peace always reigned around them because they supposedly had healing qualities. I could not help being sad that the public was barred from using something which had such a long and interesting history. Warm Springs has improved enormously, however, as a hospital, and is today a very fine development.

Contract Bridge

By Ely Culbertson

SOUTH'S play to the first trick in the following hand was a safety play in so far as a single suit was concerned, but at the same time it was an extremely shortsighted action.

South, dealer.

East-West vulnerable.

	♠K5 ♥QJ8 ♦107643 ♣542
♠A10862 ♥74 ♦KJ95 ♣73	NORTH WEST EAST SOUTH	♠Q94 ♥106532 ♦A2 ♣K98
	♠J73 ♥AK9 ♦Q8 ♣AQJ106

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♣	Pass	1♦	Pass
2 N.T.	Pass	3 N.T.	Pass
Pass	Pass

Considering the optimism involved in South's leap to two notrump, it was too bad that he did not maintain the same spirit in the play.

West's opening lead was the six of spades. Declarer played the five from dummy, and East won with the queen. East returned his partner's lead, and although West thought about ducking to maintain spade communication with East, he decided that it might be more important to keep declarer off the board, so he took the trick and led a third round of spades.

If South had been able to win the second trick with dummy's spade king, he could have taken one club finesse then, and another by means of the heart entry. Since, however, South was reduced to one entry in dummy, he could not trap East's club king, and when he conceded that card to clear the suit, East returned the ace and another diamond. Thus, the contract was defeated four tricks!

As far as the spade suit alone was concerned, South's duck in dummy was correct, because only in that way could he be sure of taking one spade trick and stopping the suit. If South put up the king he might lose to the ace in East's hand; then a spade return through the jack might give West the rest of the suit. Nevertheless, under the circumstances, South should have ignored the safety play. He urgently needed two entries to dummy and thus should have risked the play of the spade king at the first trick. That decision alone would have given him the contract, because he then could have run the entire club suit on successive finesses.

Good Eyesight A Precious Gift

By J. Earl Smith, M.D.

St. Louis Health Commissioner

ST. LOUIS children are now back in the swing of school life. Books and more books! Lessons to do every evening, with perhaps a favorite television program to watch when lessons are finished.

To get the full benefit from these activities good eyesight is important. But how many of our children had their eyes professionally examined by a specialist before starting the new school year.

* * *

THE National Society for the Prevention of Blindness estimates that one out of every four school children in the United States needs eye care.

A child may complain about many things but he rarely complains about his sight. He may see double, his vision may be blurred, but because he doesn't know how he should see he believes that's just the way things look.

Poor vision can be a serious handicap to a child at school, at home and at play—a handicap that if not corrected he will carry into his adult life.

* * *

IF A CHILD rubs his eye frequently, frowns, attempts to brush away blur, has difficulty in reading or other work requiring close use of the eyes, blinks more than is usual, and

If a child is irritable when doing close work, stumbles or trips over small objects, holds objects close to eyes, can't play games requiring distance vision, is very sensitive to light, and

If a child has red-rimmed encrusted or swollen eyelids, recurring sties, inflamed or watery eyes, cross-eyes, and

If a child complains that he cannot see well, is dizzy, nauseous, or has headaches following close eye work, has blurred or double vision

That child may need glasses or his glasses may not fit properly. To find out arrange for an eye examination by a competent specialist in that field. And above all don't delay. Eyes deserve the care and protection that you would give to your most precious possession.

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

1. ARE THE FAMILIES OF COLLEGE GRADUATES INCREASING? YES NO
2. WILL CHILDREN CONTINUE TO GROW THE WAY THEY ARE STARTED! YES NO
3. ARE HIGHLY INTELLIGENT PEOPLE MORALLY SUPERIOR? YES NO
10-3

Answer to Question 1.

YES, fortunately, the Eight-year College Study" shows that graduates of 1936 supplied only 1.02 children per man, only .95 children per woman. The 1943 male graduates supplied 1.63 children per man, 1.30 per woman. An increase of 30 per cent for women. College graduate women are still nearly "a child" too low to replace their parents, but the increase is encouraging.

Answer to Question 2.

Most likely. Irving Stout and Grace Langdon studied 81 "well-adjusted" males and females from 9 to 21 years old. Five years later they carefully interviewed them again and found that only one had become really maladjusted, while four others were going through some emotional ups and downs. Parents of 76 said "They are the same happy, self-confident children as before." Children will usually go on the way you start them.

Answer to Question 3.

Yes, as a rule. The late biologist F. A. Woods studied all the ruling kings, queens and princes of Europe over 800 years. Those rated high for intellect, even by enemy historians, were almost all rated high for moral character.

TEXTILE MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 3 (AP)—Goods continued in slow demand in the cotton textile market Friday. Dealers reported that the only feature was fairly good sales of soft-filled sheetings for the fourth quarter. Prices were said to be low and attracted demand.

In the wool goods market, orders were still confined more to woolen than worsted fabrics. Dealers were cheered by reports of improving clothing sales at retail stores, with consumer interest quickened by cooler weather in the latter part of September. This appeared to be promising prospects for moving clothing inventories which in turn would stimulate buying of cloth from mills by manufacturers later on.

Dealers reported generally poor demand for rayon gray goods. Supply of rayon and acetate yarn was said to be available at sizeable discounts to mill levels.

HOG SUPPLY TOP SINCE APRIL, PRICE LOWEST SINCE AUGUST

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Oct. 3. (USDA weekly review of the livestock market.)

Reduced supplies of cattle and calves in week ended Friday, found irregular and generally lower sale. Steers and heifers closed steady to 50c lower and cows mostly 50c lower, late strength minimizing earlier declines. Bulls finished $1 lower, vealers steady to $1 higher and slaughter calves $1 or more lower. Replacement steers showed small net change for the period. Prime 1219-lb steers brought $27.75, small lots prime yearling steers $27.50@28, with choice to prime steers largely $22.50@26.50, choice steers and heifers mixed $22@25.50. Good and choice steers and heifers $18@22.50, utility and commercial steers and heifers $10@17. Utility and commercial cows $9@12, a few $12.50@13.00, with canner and cutter cows largely $6.50@9. Utility and commercial bulls brought $10.50@13, a few reaching $13.50, while canner and cutter bulls largely $7.50@10. Individual head of prime vealers scored $26, good and choice largely $16@22, utility and commercial $10@15. Good and choice slaughter calves $13@17, utility and commercial $8@12 and culls down to $5. Common and good replacement steers varied from $9@16, several load Oklahoma grass steers 600-650 lb average, at $16.75.

Supplies of hogs this week were largest since April. Prices of barrows and gilts lost $1.50 to $2 from the lowest level since early in August. Sows finished mostly $1 lower. Extreme top for the week was $25.35 Wednesday, the Friday top $24. Sows sold up to $24.00 but finished from $23 down. For the week bulk of 200 lb barrows and gilts sold at $23.50@25.00, 170@190 lbs. $23.50@25, 150@170 lbs. $22.25@24.75, 260@400 lb. sows $21.75@24, and heavier sows $20.25@22.25.

Temporarily low prices against Chicago and some other river markets stimulated unusually aggressive demand for spring lambs which advanced $2 to mostly $3, with top $3.25 higher. Yearlings advanced $1@2; aged sheep unchanged. About 60 percent of week's crop of springers were choice and prime from $18@21, mostly $20@21, from midweek on; late top $21.25, about fourth of supply choice mixed lower grades from $16@17.50, about 15 per cent comprised cull and utility throwouts and feeders from $10@15. Choice fall-shorn yearling wethers brought $18; choice No. 1 and 2 skins $17@17.50; several loads utility to choice $14.50@16.50; several lots yearling ewes $12.50; old ewes $3@4.50.

ST. LOUIS LIVESTOCK EXCHANGE, Oct. 3—There were 100 hogs on market today but they were carried over until Monday. No cattle, calves or sheep arrivals.

CHICAGO, Oct. 3 (INS) — Hog prices closed sharply lower at Midwest livestock markets the past week. Prices at Chicago were down as much as $2, the sharpest setback since the last week in July. Cattle finished irregular and lambs scored gains ranging to $3, the sharpest upturn in months. Hogs lost $1.50 to $2 and more at some of the Eastern cornbelt markets, with prices 50 cents to $1.50 lower elsewhere.

The downturn in hogs resulted from seasonally larger supplies and further reductions in wholesale prices of dressed pork.

At the close of the week, practical top prices on choice hogs were reported from $24 to $24.25 at the cornbelt terminals. Most of the choice 190 to 250-pound weights sold from $23.25 to $24, with butchers from 160 to 190 pounds going at $21.50 to $23.50. The week's closing top at Chicago was $24.15.

Slaughter steers, heifers and cows generally closed steady to $1 lower for the week with some important exceptions. Prices at the St. Paul (Minn.) market were 50 cents to $1 higher on all three classes of stock, with average choice and prime fed steers steady to 50 cents higher at several other leading terminals.

The week's top on prime fed steers was reported at $30.50 a hundred pounds at the Indianapolis market, but the steers were purchased prior to delivery. The top at Chicago was $30.25, the highest since mid-July. Elsewhere, the best steers available topped from $27 to $28.25.

Slaughter lambs were $1 to $3 higher on smaller farm shipments. Choice to prime lambs sold up to $22.50 at

CHAPTER THIRTY-FOUR

"WHO broke your engagement? You or Nympha?" Sally asked stubbornly.

Peter's grip on her shoulder tightened.

"I did," he said shaking her. "I was so disappointed when she didn't reproach me for taking you to the beach that it forced me to realize the truth. Unconsciously I had tried to make Nympha jealous, hoping she would give me an excuse to call off the marriage I no longer desired and the reason I no longer desired it was because I had fallen in love with you."

"But you saw her several times after that. You took her to dinner and only last night she went to your house."

"I promised not to embarrass her while her friend was here," Peter explained. "Nympha is very proud and she asked me not to tell anyone that our engagement was broken until she had left. But she came to see me last night to explain that her father-in-law had offered to pay her way home if she would leave immediately. She told me she had no intention of returning to this country. The funds from her husband's estate cannot be taken from Argentina. And she prefers living there anyway."

"But what about Linda?"

"Mr. Wilmington promised to send her there for a visit if she wished to see her mother but Nympha said their relationship had been ruined by Linda's marriage. Does this answer all your questions?"

Sally pressed her cheek against his. "Thank you, Peter. I had to get things straight in my own mind."

"You haven't answered my question," he reminded her.

She put both arms about his neck. "You knew before you asked it. I've loved you since the moment we met. I'd have married you that first night if you had asked me."

"The night you lied to me. I must love you very much to have overlooked that."

"Then you have forgiven me?"

"Yes. I realize now it was only a girlish attempt to impress me."

"That's sweet of you," she murmured as their lips met, but this time she did not draw away.

* * *

BEFORE he left they had decided to be married within a week. Since Peter still wanted to leave as soon as possible for his sabbatical year.

"A year isn't very long to write a book the length mine is going to be," he explained. "And maybe you can do some writing, too while we're away. How about letting me read your manuscript now that we're engaged? I might be able to suggest a market for it."

Sally agreed but when she went into the house to get it she was surprised to find that her mother was not there. Margaret must be still in conference with Wilmington, but the door connecting the two halls was closed so there was no sound from the library. Sally gave her story to Peter who was waiting on the porch.

"I'll read it tonight," he said, kissing her. "I'm too excited to sleep, and tomorrow we'll have to get busy on final arrangements for our journey. I'll leave the plans for our wedding to you. Anything you want will be satisfactory with me."

Unable to believe her good fortune, Sally said, "I'd like to be married here in the library but Mother and I may have left by that time. We'll discuss it tomorrow."

"I'll call you early in the morning," he promised.

Sally waited until his car had left the driveway then went inside sighing happily. As she entered the kitchen the buzzer sounded. Puzzled by the summons Sally hastened to the library.

The door was open and her mother was sitting beside Wilmington on the davenport. Margaret had been crying but Sally had never seen her look so happy. As Sally entered the room Wilmington rose, but it was Margaret who spoke.

"Come in, Sally. Your grandfather wants to talk to you."

"You've told him!" the girl gasped.

"No, my dear, I've known it ever since you came here to live," the old man said fondly. "Sit down while I explain to you."

* * *

SALLY sank into a chair and he continued, "You see I had a letter from my son, mailed by his attorney, after his death in which Richard confessed everything. He was leaving his entire estate, which he had inherited from his grandmother to Nympha and Linda but he wanted to make sure they would also inherit from me so he warned me in case your mother, who had refused to divorce him, made any claim.

"When Margaret applied for this job I suspected she had some idea of revenge but I wanted to know you both for myself so I hired Tony, who was to work in my office as soon as he passed his bar exams, to stay here as a chauffeur and get acquainted with you. Naturally, Nympha and Linda knew nothing of the true situation and I had sworn Tony to secrecy. I soon discovered that whatever your motives, I had nothing to fear from either of you. You, my dear," he said glancing at the portrait over the mantel, "reminded me from the first of your grandmother, while your mother has made me happier and more comfortable than I ever expected to be again."

Margaret was blushing with pleasure and his smile at her was full of affection as he said, "Now that we have disposed of the lady from Argentina I have thought of a plan which I think will benefit all of us. Naturally I do not want Linda to know the true situation but I do want both of you to bear the name to which you are entitled. Happily your mother has agreed to my idea. Would you like to tell her yourself what it is?" he asked turning to Margaret.

"He's asked me to marry him, Sally. He's the finest gentleman I've ever known and I'd like nothing better than to stay on here as Mrs. Wilmington."

Sally kissed them both and, some time later, as she and Margaret were still talking about their future, the phone rang. It was Peter calling at 3 a. m. "I said I'd call you early," he said.

"I wasn't asleep," Sally assured him. "You finished my story, Peter? What do you think of it?"

"It's terrible," he said. "I told you not to write the truth, Sally, and this is nothing but. It sticks out like a sore thumb but I love you more than ever—if that is possible."

"It's all that matters to me," Sally said. "You may burn the manuscript but when I see you I've another chapter to relate. You'd never guess what the real ending of this story is going to be."

Uncle Ray's Column

By Ramon Coffman

THERE ARE many kinds of magic squares besides those I described last time, but the nine-part magic square is a good example. It has a figure somewhat like that used for ticktacktoe (or tit-tat-toe) but the magic square has a border, and figures are put in the spaces instead of crosses and zeros.

In that simple magic square, the numbers run from 1 to 9, and each row adds to 15 whether we add crosswise, downward or diagonally. One diagonal has 4 and 5 and 6 in it with 5 in the middle. With that diagonal as a start, some persons can figure out the rest of the square.

* * *

MAGIC SQUARES were known in several ancient countries. In India and China they were cut on metal and on stone, and were supposed to serve as charms against danger!

It is amazing how much work has been done on magic squares. There are men—and a few women—who like to play with figures, and certain of them have spent hundreds of hours working out a single new type of magic square.

Several magic squares have eight rows across and eight rows down. These have as many spaces as does a checker board. Even they are not the limit. If you could visit my studio, I should be glad to show you a magic square with 81 spaces.

The science of algebra is useful in working out some types of magic squares. Without the help of algebra, many of them might never have been produced.

* * *

IF YOU ASKED ME what good a magic square does, I should have a bit of trouble giving an answer. One thing I can say, however, is this:

Working with figures to produce a magic square ought to sharpen the wits. There should be "sharpening," at least, if a person finished the exercise within a reasonable time. If the task kept him awake night after night, it might make his wits somewhat dull!
